Flood sentenced to year in prison

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

EAST ST. LOUIS — U.S. District Judge William Stiehl sentenced Granite City Realtor Gaye Flood to one year and one day in prison Monday, and ordered her to pay restitution of $250,000.

She was convicted Aug. 6 on seven felony counts.

More than 40 well-wishers, family members and friends of Flood crowded the federal courtroom Monday to hear Stiehl's decision.

Flood, visibly shaken at the sentence, was found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development — through the Federal Housing Administration and the Office of Veterans Assistance, formerly the Veterans Administration — through the submission of false loan application statements by Paul Ray Bowler and Jack Orwig, both of Granite City.

On the count of conspiracy to defraud,

Stiehl sentenced Flood to one year and one day in prison, with the possibility of parole after serving one-third of that term.

Stiehl also sentenced Flood to one year and one day, to run concurrently, on each of five counts of making false statements.

Five of the six false-statement counts found she induced Bowler to make false statements on separate applications for FHA-insured loans made through Delmar Financial in Clayton for purchase in 1984 of apartment buildings at 3916, 3924, 4052 and 4060 Oakmont Drive in Pontoon Beach and an FHA-insured loan made in 1984 through Lomas and Nettleton Co. of Granite City for a house at 2617 Pine St. in Granite City.

The other false-statement count found she induced Orwig to write a false statement on a 1984 application for a VA loan to cover up the fact he had borrowed the down payment from his employer for a house at 22 Victoria Drive in Pontoon Beach.

On the final count, Stiehl suspended sentence and ordered Flood to serve five years of probation, to begin immediately following her release from prison.

In a preface to sentencing, Stiehl called Flood "a woman very well thought of" by businesses and the community at large.

He cited "a great many letters from friends, family and business associates" of Flood, pertaining to her character. He summarized that the sentence was "as lenient as it can be," due to Flood's absence of a prior record, her community contributions, and her support to her parents and family and their need for continued support.

However, Stiehl ruled that Flood "had the trust of many (people) and violated that trust." He called the actions of Flood "a serious offense," and stated that she "must suffer a penalty for that offense."

Bowler, then vice president of the Granite City School Board and a former Granite City alderman, spent nearly 20 hours on the witness stand during Flood's trial this year.

Bowler pleaded guilty in February 1989 to a single federal felony count of making a false statement.

Stiehl sentenced Bowler Aug. 27 to two years of probation with the stipulation that Bowler resign from the school board, serve 100 hours of community service and pay the U.S. government $11,811 in restitution.

He had been indicted in December 1988 on four counts of making false statements on FHA-insured loan applications, but the other three counts were dropped in return for his guilty plea and his agreement to testify against Flood.

Flood's attorney, Patrick B. Mathis of Belleville, declined to comment.

Barb Wyatt, president of the Granite City Board of Realtors, said her organization had no comment on the decision.

Policeman fired

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Officer Jerry Duncan was dismissed from the police department by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners on Monday night.

A report read by David Antognoli, attorney for the board, stated that "repeated, unexcused absences" had been disclosed in review of Duncan's personnel record.

The report cited two previous suspensions in 1990, and five incidents in 1989 resulting in two other suspensions. Also noted was a 30-day suspension in 1978 due to an unauthorized shooting incident.

The report said that it was the board's conclusion that further suspensions would be ineffective, as Duncan's "repeated misconduct displays an inability to change."

Duncan was found guilty by the board on Oct. 22 of failing to respond to roll call, or to provide a timely excuse. After announcing the guilty finding, the board announced it would deliberate the following evening and announce its punishment Monday.

Duncan's attorney, Melroy B. Hutnick of Belleville, said he would recommend that his client pursue his rights of "administrative review," but that the decision would be Duncan's.

Duncan had been suspended with pay for two weeks following the filing of charges. Thereafter, his suspension had been without pay.

Duncan joined the police force in 1977.

Stolen car may be tied to six 'bump and runs'

VENICE — Two men who authorities say may be responsible for as many as six "bump-and-run" collisions/robberies were charged Monday with felony counts.

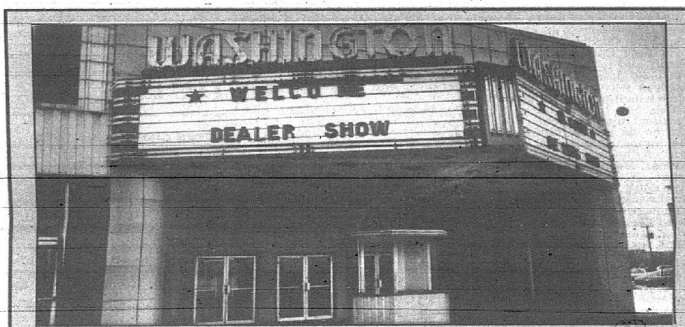

Venice police arrested Stacy Wilkins, 22, of the 700 block of N. 26th Street in East St. Louis, and Gregory Hicks, 25, of Bond Street, also in East St. Louis, on Friday after a routine traffic stop revealed that the black 1986 Ford Mustang they were in had been reported stolen to the Illinois State Police.

The Madison County State's Attorney's Office filed felony charges against the two Monday.

Each was charged with offenses relating to motor vehicles, a class 2 felony. Hicks was further charged with obstructing justice, a class 4 felony, for allegedly falsifying his identity. Bond was set at $25,000 on each warrant.

Police said further actions against the pair are being considered. (See BUMP, Page 10A)

DEALERS WELCOMED to the Washington Theater on 19th Street in Granite City for the past five years will soon find a vacant lot there.

City buys Washington Theater

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The city has become the proud owner of one of the most prominent empty buildings in downtown.

For the sum of $1, the city purchased the Washington Theater building in the 1300 block of 19th Street from Magna Trust No. 415. As part of the deal, however, the city also assumes payment of a $16,366.53 mortgage.

The building has been closed for more than five years.

What does the city plan to do with the big structure?

"Tear it down," said Economic Development Director Alan Orthals.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse said buying the building "is necessarily a major breakthrough in downtown redevelopment, but he said it was "a big step psychologically" and a good deal for everyone involved.

"I think it shows we haven't given up on downtown," Cruse said. "It also shows other owners that if their property is not up to health and safety standards they have to get it in shape or tear it down."

Cruse and Orthals said the city hopes to be able to attract a contractor who will tear the building down for salvage, thus saving the city money.

"We don't have a deadline," Cruse said. "So if we can find someone to take it piece by piece, that's what we'll do."

The Hardesty home on Wilson Park Lane

Halloween display burned by vandals

GRANITE CITY — This is the first and last time Dennis and Diana Hardesty will decorate for a holiday, they said Monday.

On Sunday at 3:30 a.m., vandals set fire to two bales of hay in the front yard of their home on Wilson Park Lane. The bales were part of the family's Halloween display.

The Hardestys awoke to find their home filled with smoke; thinking the house was on fire, they got their two children, ages four and seven, and went outside. There they discovered the hay on fire.

After putting out the fire, the Hardestys then went left with the task of cleaning their carpets, drapes, furniture and bedding to get rid of the smell of smoke.

The experience has left them less enthusiastic about decorating. Now they bring in all their Halloween decorations at 10 p.m. and put them back out the next morning.

Money woes could hamper 911 plan

By David Migoya

EDWARDSVILLE — Refusal by the Madison County Board to allocate more than $230,000 toward installation of the 911 emergency telephone system could prevent the system from becoming a reality, Sheriff Bob Churchich said Monday.

Churchich submitted a request for $232,000 during a Finance Committee meeting last week and the committee has opted not to recommend the allocation, instead deferring the decision to the full board, Madison County Administrator Jim Monday said.

The money, Churchich maintains, is needed to compensate for monies not allocated by the 911 program for new equipment and facility modernization.

Without it, the program "is dead in the water," he said.

However, the board is expected to approve a $116,000 allocation recommended by the Emergency Phone System Board when the final county budget is approved at the Nov. 14 county board meeting. The 1991 fiscal year begins Dec. 1.

That money is earmarked for equipment and the addition of one dispatcher per shift.

The 911 board also said it would allocate an additional $72,500 toward personnel and training.

Churchich's request, finance committee members have said, contains equipment changes and modifications not related to 911, and the 911 board's money proposal is sufficient to meet the needs, they add.

Churchich maintains he must move the current dispatch center at the sheriff's department to a larger area in the rear of the building and must add soundproofing and other equipment if it is to operate efficiently.

The 911 system is expected to be operational by December 1991, although board members concede it will be about five months beyond that date before the system will accept calls because of training.

Churchich said county board members' opposition to his request violates an oral agreement made earlier this month between the county and members of the 911 board.

Consequently, the rift will endanger the completion of the (See 911, Page 10A)

Herzog Still Admired, Revered—And Busy

In between a morning that had been spent catching bass and an afternoon that would be spent playing golf, Whitey Herzog stopped at a West County restaurant the other day for a bite of lunch.

St. Louis' most recognizable exile shook a few hands and signed a few autographs. The lunch crowd was polite and deferential—almost reverent—toward the man who'd managed the Cardinals baseball team for 10 years. But you could see the heads turn and the arms nudged around the room, and hear the whispers.

"You know, there's almost more attention now than there was before," Herzog said. "Walking through the airport, folks come up and wish me luck and tell me thanks."

"Are you enjoying your hiatus?" asked one well-turned-out matron as she presented a piece of paper for an autograph.

"Yes," he said. "I'm enjoying it a lot."

And that, sports fans, is the top of the news. Whitey Herzog doesn't miss managing the Cardinals one damned bit.

"It's funny," he said, sipping from a glass of a beverage manufactured by the firm that pays him more to not manage than all but a half dozen or so managers get paid to manage. "I don't miss it yet."

"It makes it easier when you're getting paid. But I'm beginning to think I didn't like what I was doing nearly as much as I thought I did."

To recap for those who came in late, Whitey Herzog was to baseball in St. Louis in the 1980s what debt-increment financing was to Wall Street in the '80s. He led the Cardinals to three pennants, a World Series and all kinds of attendance records. He turned a town that had liked baseball into one that was absolutely goofy over it.

And then, just about the time the '80s were collapsing on Wall Street, they were collapsing here, too. In the middle of a season that had started miserably and would end even worse, Herzog fell on his sword.

"It was like I was in a can't-win situation," he said. "I'd brought all these players, in one way or another, and we'd let ourselves get into a position where we had 10 guys who were going to be free agents."

"Most of them came to see me and said they wanted to stay. I said I'd see what I could do, and nothing would happen. Now they all knew that I'd always been able to get done what I wanted to get done, so they figured it was my fault."

Herzog, who believes strongly that organizations thrive when there's one person in charge and everyone is on the same page, found the Cardinals weren't even reading from the same book.

So now the Cardinals are general manager Dal Maxvill's team, and it's clear the White Bat feels a little awkward about that. He talks about the team alternately as "they" ("They made a great deal for [Willie] McGee") and "we" ("We could have a hell of a pitching staff").

This can be explained in part by Herzog's arrangement with Cardinal management. Yes, he's a team vice president. No, he has no particular duties. He made an 11-game scouting trip to the minor leagues last summer, and will do it again next year. But whether anyone will read his reports is an open question.

What Herzog seems to be is a rather prominent insurance policy. If the Cardinals slide down the tubes in the next year or two, don't be surprised to see Anheuser-Busch go to the bullpen for the big left-hander.

That is, unless somebody else hires him first. Herzog's had an awful lot of phone calls, but "I always said that when I was through managing the Cardinals, I'd probably be through. I didn't let anyone get close enough to make an offer."

"The last one was the funniest one. Some New York paper had me becoming the general manager of the Mets."

If there's anything Whitey Herzog is less likely to do than become some team's general manager, it's become some team's general manager and live in New York. Especially not when he's got a brand new house in South County, a well-paying job that lets him fish in the morning, golf in the afternoon, hunt in the autumn, ski in the winter and watch baseball games on satellite all night in the summer.

"I keep busy, man," he said. "You know me, I'm a piddler. I've got a list of things to do at the house that would keep me busy for two weeks, and I don't have time to do them. There's not enough hours in the day."

(Kevin Horrigan is co-host of "The Morning Meeting" on KMOX Radio from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday.)

Police

House fire causes $20,000 damage

A house fire Sunday afternoon caused more than $20,000 damage to a single-family house in the 1900 block of Benton Avenue.

Firefighters responded to a fire at the home of Tim Jones at 12:40 p.m. and were on the scene for a little more than 2 hours. Fire Chief Jerry Wallace said the fire apparently started in a fuse box in the utility room of the house, got into the walls and eventually spread toward the attic.

Wallace said the fire caused "considerable" smoke damage.

Hurt in car-truck crash
Tracy K. Crider, 20, of Tulepo, Miss., was injured at 4:20 p.m. Oct. 26 when his car was struck by a pickup truck at 27th Street and Madison Avenue.

Granite City

Crider was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Police said Crider was driving east on 27th, crossing Madison Avenue, when his auto was struck in the right side by a northbound pickup truck operated by Jerome B. Kuhl, 39, of Highland.

The traffic signal lights at 27th Street were flashing red in all directions at the time, police said. Kuhl was cited for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Parole revocation arrest

Tracy Allen Clark, 28, of the 1700 block of Delmar Avenue was arrested there at 4:20 p.m. Oct. 25 on a parole revocation warrant issued Oct. 4 by law enforcement authorities in Austin, Texas.

Tree damage reported

Numerous trees and a snow bush were cut down and damaged in the rear yard at the home of Alberta Cochran in the 1700 block of Edison Avenue, she reported at 2:10 p.m. Oct. 26.

2 charges against man

Harry Pilot, 37, of Brooklyn was allegedly standing in the middle of Madison Avenue, in the 2900 block, while yelling at passing vehicles at 9:55 p.m. Oct. 26.

An officer reported Pilot jumped in front of his squad car and was almost struck. The man then went to the side of the street and lay down on the front lawn at a residence.

When told he was under arrest, Pilot reportedly pushed against the officer and was further charged with resisting a peace officer.

St. Clair judge disputes survey results

By David Migoya

Staff writer

BELLELEVILLE — A lawyers poll released last week that gave St. Clair County Circuit Judge Michael O'Malley a "not recommended" rating contains information that's nearly nine months old and that could mislead voters, O'Malley said.

The poll, released Oct. 15 by the Illinois State Bar Association, showed O'Malley as having a score of 65.09 for "judicial integrity," with 70 as the passing score.

O'Malley scored 71.17 overall on the poll.

Any candidate who fails to get a minimum score of 70 for judicial integrity is considered "not recommended" by the bar even if the overall score is passing.

Lawyers participating in the poll were surveyed in September in order to rate judges running for retention. O'Malley's scores were the same ones released in March during the primary election.

Those scores were determined from a February poll, when O'Malley was still an associate judge.

"My question is why the bar association hasn't re-evaluated me?" O'Malley said Monday. "Why not rate me now rather than use dated information?"

O'Malley is in a unique position because he has been a circuit judge since May 1, when St. Clair County Chief Judge Stephen Kernan appointed him to the position left vacant by the 1989 death of Circuit Judge Richard Hudlin.

O'Malley defeated lawyer Robert Mays of East St. Louis in the Democratic primary in March and is running unopposed for a circuit judge for six months, a new poll would not be taken.

According to a spokesman for the bar association, even though O'Malley has been sitting as a circuit judge for six months, a new poll would not be taken.

DUIs

Three charges are filed

Lisa Ann Armour, 25, of the 2500 block of Parkway Drive was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, resisting a peace officer and disorderly conduct when arrested in the 2700 block of Denver Street at 2:20 a.m. Oct. 27.

Police went to that location after receiving a report that a motorist was repeatedly honking a car horn and continuously revving up the car engine.

An officer ordered the driver to stop revving the engine and the woman allegedly continued to accelerate it until the patrolman reached inside the vehicle and turned off the ignition switch.

Armour allegedly refused to leave the car, grabbing the steering wheel with both hands and then wrapping one arm around the wheel when an attempt was made to remove her from the vehicle.

Armour then was carried to a squad car and booked at the police headquarters.

THE LEADER Downtown Granite City

United Way at $756,000

Preliminary reports are favorable for the Tri-City Area United Way's current fund drive effort.

Thus far, $756,539 of the $1,015,000 goal has been pledged. With nearly 75 percent of the goal achieved, 1990 Campaign Chairman Jack Lee said, "I am very pleased with the results to date, but we must not lose our momentum now."

Lee said 400 accounts that contributed to last year's campaign have not yet been contacted.

"We must continue to work hard if we are to succeed in funding needed services for the community," he said.

The next report meeting is scheduled for Nov. 1 at 8 a.m. at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, 2000 Delmar Ave. in Granite City.

YMCA plans meeting on basketball leagues

The Tri-City Area YMCA will conduct a meeting on Thursday, Nov. 1, at 6 p.m. for those interested in participating in its fall basketball leagues.

The "Y" will offer two leagues: an "open" league and a "six-foot and under" league. Each is limited to six teams.

The fee is $200 per team for the open league and $150 per team for the other league.

The meeting will be held at the YMCA, located at 2001 Edison Ave.

Fairmont City wants to dissolve park district

By Leticia Harrison
Staff writer

As Collinsville campaigns to establish a park district, the village of Fairmont City is trying to get rid of one.

Voters in Fairmont City will decide in the general election Nov. 6 whether to dissolve its park district, which is several years old, and allow the village board of trustees to operate its one park.

Village Clerk Joe Jablonski said, "The interest has dissipated so much we couldn't get people to run."

No one wanted to be appointed to the five-member board of commissioners, either, Jablonski said.

"For some reason, they just couldn't get enough interest," he said.

The park commissioners are not compensated for their work, which may be the reason for the lack of interest, Jablonski said.

Members of the village board are paid.

The park district presided over Granby Park at 45th and Cookin streets, more commonly known as Fairmont City Veterans' Park.

Jablonski said the park was named after the old Granby zinc plant, which used the combined soccer and baseball field there for intramural sports.

After World War II when the park district was formed, citizens began referring to the park as Veterans' Park, he said.

The lighted park has daily activities. There are bleachers, restrooms and a concession stand, Jablonski said.

"It's well kept," he added.

Rendezvous this week

PRAIRIE DU ROCHER

Militia units and buckskinners, "from the 1700s" will test their skills at the annual Fall Rendezvous on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 3 and 4, at the Fort de Chartres State Historic Site.

The highlight of the event will be a "woods walk," where five-man teams walk a course through woods and shoot muskets at life-like targets.

The course tests each team's marksmanship, historical knowledge and common sense. Because of the nature of the "woods walk," visitor access to that area will be limited.

Visitors can roam freely among 1700s-period traders and campsites that will be set up at the fort. Crane's Post inside Fort de Chartres will be open for business all weekend.

There is no charge to attend the Fall Rendezvous. Fort de Chartres State Historic Site, administered by the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency, is a reconstructed 1750s vintage French fort along the Mississippi River.

It is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day, and is located four miles west of Prairie du Rocher off Illinois 155.

Offices to close election day

SPRINGFIELD — All Illinois Secretary of State offices and facilities will be closed Tuesday, Nov. 6, for the general election day. The offices will reopen Wednesday, Nov. 7.

Driver services facilities that are normally open Tuesday through Saturday, including the Granite City office, also will be closed Saturday, Nov. 10, for Veterans Day. The facilities will resume business on Tuesday, Nov. 13.

Medical group to meet Nov. 8

The 116th annual meeting of the Southern Illinois Medical Association will be held Thursday, Nov. 8, from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. at Fischer's Restaurant in Belleville, its officers have announced.

The 1990 meeting of medical doctors will consist of a one-day scientific, postgraduate course for all physicians in 29 counties of southern Illinois.

The speakers for the day will include:

•James H. Andersen, M.D., president of the Illinois State Medical Society.

•Richard J. Sasseti, M.D., chairman, Illinois State Medical Society's Laboratory Services Committee.

•Ken Mitchell and Richard Waters, Illinois Department of Public Health staff members.

•Gene Gieselmann, chief trainer of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals.

•Roger Louis Ladda, M.D., Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine, Hershey, Pa.; and •Sundeep Khosla, M.D., Mayo Clinic and Mayo Medical School, Rochester, Minn.

Schnucks stores to collect flexible plastic packaging for new recycling program

In a first-of-its-kind program, flexible plastic packaging from disposable diapers, paper towels and bathroom tissue will be collected for recycling in Granite City and the St. Louis area.

Schnuck Markets Inc. will have containers in 20 of its metro area food stores for collection of the flexible plastic packaging. The program is a six-month test by Schnucks, Procter & Gamble and Sonoco Products Co.

Procter and Gamble will equip each of the 20 participating Schnucks stores with new containers in which customers can deposit the recyclable plastic.

The containers will have two compartments, one for plastic grocery sacks and the other for plastic packaging. The containers will be marked, but will also have a clear front so that shoppers can see which plastics are to be deposited in each compartment.

The collected material will be sent to Sonoco, where it will be separated, analyzed and recycled into commercial shipping products.

Sonoco, Procter & Gamble and Schnucks also will study a variety of other recycling issues, such as consumer responsiveness and the volume and cleanliness of the collected material.

The companies will determine the cost of collection, separation and reprocessing of the material.

into post-consumer products, it was explained.

Results of the pilot program will determine what refinements, if any, are needed, as well as the long-term viability of such a program.

Location of the participating Schnucks stores are:
3401 Nameoki Road, Granite City; 1615 Camp Jackson Road, Cahokia; 5655 Arsenal St., St. Louis; 7057 Chippewa, St. Louis; 7651 Clayton Road at Hanley Road, Clayton; and No. 10 Wentzville Market Place, Wentzville.

Also, 2665 North Illinois St., Swansea; 8900 Jennings Road at River Roads; 3661 Reavis Barracks Road; 12305 Natural Bridge in Carrollton; 10223 Lewis & Clark, Bellefontaine.

Plus, 8200 North Lindbergh, Florissant; 4333 Butler Hill, at Hill Road; 241 Fenton Park Mall, Fenton; 12756 Olive Street Road at Mason Road.

Also, 141 Hilltown Village, Chesterfield; 10070 Gravois, Affton; 48 Plaza Ninety-Four Drive, Harvester; 9074 Overland Plaza (Fuge and 170), Overland; and 1060 Schnucks Woods Mill Plaza at Clayton Road.

This program is in addition to Schnucks' successful plastic grocery bag recycling program, which began in April of this year.

109 meetings in area in October

A total of 109 conventions, meetings, exhibits, trade shows and special events booked or serviced by the St. Louis Convention & Visitors Commission were held in October, a compilation by the commission showed.

The Society for Neuroscience, the largest October convention in this metropolitan area, is expected to attract up to 15,000 physicians and scientists during its six-day annual meeting, which began Oct. 28 and will be concluded on Nov. 2.

EARTHQUAKES

IN THE EVENT OF AN EARTHQUAKE,

fire or flood, you and your family will need to be prepared to quickly and efficiently evacuate. By planning and practicing what to do before you need to, you will help yourself and your family to react correctly and spontaneously at the first of danger.

Planning to Evacuate

- Sketch the floor plan of your residence.
- Show a second way to exit from each room. If you need special equipment, such as a rope ladder, mark where it is located.
- Mark where your emergency food, water, first-aid kits and fire extinguishers are kept.
- Mark where the utility (gas, water and electric) shut-off valves are located.
- Indicate the location of your family's emergency outdoor meeting place.

EARTHQUAKE FACTS

What is the Richter scale? The Richter scale of earthquake magnitude is a measure of the energy released at the source of an earthquake deep within the earth. It is determined by measuring the amplitudes of ground motion on seismograms. An earthquake has a fixed amount of energy and only one Richter magnitude.

How much increase in energy does each unit of the Richter scale represent? Every two units on the Richter scale, say from 4.2 to 6.2, represent 1,000 times more energy, and every two-tenths of a unit represents double the energy.

How do those energy levels relate to damage caused by an earthquake? Earthquakes are classified as follows:

1.0 to 2.9: Probably will not be felt by most people. No damage.
3.0 to 3.9: Minor shaking, can be barely felt. No damage.
4.0 to 4.9: Tremors can be felt several miles away. Very minor damage may occur.

5.0 to 5.9: Fairly strong shaking and there's no doubt that it's an earthquake. Some damage will be reported.

6.0 to 6.9: A "moderate" earthquake with widespread damage. Injuries or deaths may result.

7.0 to 7.75: A "major" earthquake in which most man-made structures will be damaged.

7.76 and above: A "great" earthquake in which the damage and destruction are nearly total. Almost all man-made structures will be severely damaged.

The scale above is a guide, but damage can vary depending on the area.

If a fault has lots of little earthquakes, will larger ones be prevented?

No. Many small quakes do not act as a safety valve for a larger one. A magnitude of 6.0 (which is damaging) has 1,000 times more energy than a 4.0 (which is not damaging). An 8.0 (which is devastating) is 1,000 times larger than a 6.0. In other words, a fault would have to have 1,000 4.0 events to prevent the occurrence of a single 6.0 earthquake, or a million 4.0 events (1,000 times 1,000) to prevent a single 8.0.

The only place in the Midwest during historic times where earthquakes of 6.0 or greater magnitude have occurred is in the New Madrid zone. An earthquake of 5.0 magnitude or less is possible anywhere in the Eastern United States, according to current scientific understanding. Magnitudes of 6.0 or greater seem to be restricted to the New Madrid zone.

Because of different geological characteristics, earthquakes in the Midwest inflict more damage over greater areas than quakes of the same size in California. A large Midwestern quake could affect 20 or more states.

In any earthquake, 90 percent of the loss of life and property occurs due to failure of man-made structures.

What can we do to protect ourselves? Education, planning, proper building construction and preparedness are proven means to minimize earthquake losses, injuries and deaths. San Francisco and Armenia both recently experienced 6.9-7.1 earthquakes. San Francisco was prepared; Armenia was not. The San Francisco quake resulted in 62 deaths and $7 billion in property losses. Armenia, on the other hand, has more than 25,000 deaths and lost more than $20 billion in property. The Midwest is more prepared than Armenia, but only a fraction as prepared as San Francisco.

HOW TO SURVIVE AN EARTHQUAKE.

Nobody in the U.S. is safe from the possibility of an earthquake. Our new booklet tells you what you can do before, during and after an earthquake. If you would like a free copy of this brochure, just ask. And if you'd like a Farmers Friendly Review to make certain your insurance is up-to-date, call me.

Gauen

Ruth A. (Price) Gauen, 84, of Granite City died at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 27, 1990, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She had been ill for 10 years and in the hospital for seven weeks.

Mrs. Gauen was born May 18, 1906, in Elwood, Ind. She moved to Granite City from Kokomo, Ind., and was employed for 22 years at St. Elizabeth Medical Center as a nurse's aide. She was a member of the First United Presbyterian Church in Granite City.

Surviving are her husband, Ralph Gauen; one daughter, Mrs. Martha Slattery of Granite City; one sister, Mrs. Zena Lawson of Los Angeles; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Irwin Chapel, 3989 Maryville Road, with the Rev. Joan Marshall officiating. Burial was at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville.

Memorials are requested for the Organ Fund at First United Presbyterian Church, Granite City.

Kixmiller

Helen M. Kixmiller, 85, of Freeholdville, Ind., died at 12:40 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 27, 1990, at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Vincennes, Ind.

She was born March 15, 1905, in Freeholdville and was a member of Bethel Church of Christ there. Surviving are one son, Marlin Kixmiller of Vincennes, Ind.; one daughter, Wanetta Graham of Granite City; and five grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by two children, one grandson, one sister and one brother.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Gordon Uff Funeral Home, Freeholdville, with the Rev. Herbert Schaffel officiating. Burial was at Bethel Cemetery, Freeholdville.

Laurie

Paul Kenton Laurie, 71, of Granite City died at 9:47 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 27, 1990, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He had been ill six years and in the hospital for three weeks.

Mr. Laurie was born March 24, 1919, in Nashville, Ind. He retired in 1982 from Cummins Diesel Sales, where he worked for 25 years as a diesel mechanic. He was a member of the First Christian Church in Columbus, Ind., the Civil and Military Masonic Lodge in Hamilton, Bermuda, and Union Local 777.

Surviving is his wife, Juanita (Jordan) Laurie, whom he married Oct. 31, 1942. He was preceded in death by his parents, Albert C. and Lilly (Roberts) Laurie, and one sister.

There were no services or visitation. Mr. Laurie's body was donated to the St. Louis University Medical School.

Arrangements were handled by Irwin Chapel, Granite City.

Reed

Dr. Leslie G. Reed, 75, of St. Louis died at 4:15 p.m. Friday, Oct. 26, 1990, at Northgate Park Nursing Home in Florissant.

Born April 19, 1915, in St. Louis, he was a physician in Granite City from 1961 to 1975, and then from 1975 until his retirement in 1984 at the John Cochran VA Hospital in St. Louis.

He was past member of the Missouri State Medical Society and the St. Louis Medical Society.

Surviving are his wife, Lois (Kenner) Reed of St. Louis; two daughters, Laura K. Romano and Susan Reed Burnison; one sister, Eileen Spear; and one brother, Quinton Reed, also a medical doctor.

Dr. Reed's body was cremated. A memorial service was held Monday at Bellefontaine United Methodist Church, with the Revs. Jim Davis and Jim Christy officiating. Memorials are requested for the Christian Hospital's Hospice Program at the St. Louis Perinatal Society.

Arrangements were by Buchholz Funeral Home in Florissant.

Pacheco

Filomen R. Pacheco, 64, of Kansas City, Mo., formerly of Granite City, died at 2:31 p.m. Friday, Oct. 26, 1990, in the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City. Mr. Pacheco was visiting here.

He was a Granite City resident for eight years until moving 11 years ago.

Mr. Pacheco was born March 8, 1926, in Leon Guanajuato, Mexico. He was employed as a janitor for the Venture Department Stores for 20 years, retiring in 1988 and was of the Catholic faith.

Surviving are his wife, Evalina Medina Pacheco; two sons, Filiberto Pacheco of O'Fallon and Mario Pacheco of Madison; four daughters, Cristina Arguelles of Granite City, Rosa Pacheco of Madison and Lupe Gomez and Mercedes Arellano, both of Mexico; two brothers, Merced Pacheco and Juan Pacheco, both of Kansas City, Kan.; two sisters, Mrs. Cristina Sanchez of Kansas City, Kan., and Mrs. Asuncion Rivera of Mexico; and 16 grandchildren.

Visitation was held at Simmons Funeral Home in Kansas City, Kan. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at St. Thomas Catholic Church there, and burial was at Mount Calvary Cemetery, Kansas City, Kan.

Local arrangements were by Davis Funeral Home, Granite City.

Pasek

Frances M. Pasek, 73, of Madison died at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 30, 1990, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Arrangements are pending at Lahey Sedlak Funeral Home, 615 Madison Ave., Madison, 876-4321.

Ryan

John M. Ryan Sr., 71, of Grafton, formerly of Granite City, died Monday, Oct. 29, 1990, at Christian Northeast Hospital, St. Louis. He was a patient there for five days.

He was born April 6, 1919, in Springfield, Mo., and retired.

Mr. Ryan was a business representative for Machinists Union District 9, St. Louis.

Surviving are his wife, Marie; two daughters, Mary Ann Randall of St. Louis and Barbara Ryan of Philadelphia; one son, John M. Ryan Jr.; one daughter, Marie; two stepsons, Ed Griesemer of Brentwood and Bill Griesemer of Alton; two sisters, Mary Lou Rosner of Chicago and Alice Ann Neumann of Naperville, Ill.; 18 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Patrick and Opal Ryan.

Arrangements are pending at Jacoby Schroeder Funeral Home, Jerseyville, Ill., 1-888-5501.

Survivors include her husband, Albert Sims Sr.; six daughters, Patricia (Mrs. Raymon) Raymon of Pontoon Beach, Mrs. Chris (Karen) Worley of Osage Beach, Mo., Mrs. Al (Diana) Dussold of Fredericktown, Mo., Mrs. George (Carol) Whittier of St. Louis, Mrs. Kevin (Paulette) Worley of Florissant and Miss Michelle Sims of Cedar Hill, Mo.; one son, Al Sims Jr. of Hillsboro, Mo.; six brothers, Chad, Junior, Donald and Wayne Barton, all of St. Louis; John Barton of Fort Wayne, Ind.; and Bud Barton of Marietta, Ga.; two sisters, Mrs. Melinda McMillan of O'Fallon and Mrs. Joe (Marie) Bratcher of New Madrid, Mo.; and 17 grandchildren.

Visitation will be from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. today (Wednesday) at Werner's of Granite City, 3929 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, where funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 11 a.m. by the Rev. Henry Crippen. Burial will be at Sunset Hill Cemetery, Potomac, Md.

Memorials are suggested for the family.

Reinhardt

Evelyn Mabel (Mize) Reinhardt, 81, of O'Fallon, Ill., died Friday, Oct. 26, 1990, at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville.

Mrs. Reinhardt was born Aug. 21, 1909, in Mounds, Ill. She was a retired retail clerk.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Robert (Sharon) Frank of Fairview Heights; a son, Richard C. Reinhardt of Granite City; one sister, Geneva P. Loehring of O'Fallon; eight grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Wesley Paul Reinhardt; her parents, Edgar and Ida (Huffstader) Mize; three brothers; one sister; and one grandson, Mark Frank.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at Schildknecht Funeral Home in Fairview Heights by the Rev. Ralph Dollar. Burial was at St. John Cemetery, Granite City.

Memorials are requested for Specialized Services in Granite City.

System, Churchich said. "They're not going to shove a second-class 911 system down my throat," Churchich said.

"We sold the public (on) an enhanced 911 system and they'll have to answer to the public about it, not me."

Currently, county residents pay a 65-cent per month surcharge for the system. The sheriff's department will handle calls from unincorporated areas of the county, as well as the central dispatch for ambulance and fire department calls and calls to the Illinois State Police.

The new system is expected to draw 40,000 to 60,000 additional calls a year to the department's current dispatch center, Churchich said.

The increase in traffic will call for the hiring of nine new dispatchers, although Churchich admits the system can operate on a bare bones minimum of two full-time dispatchers.

Terry Ford, chairman of the 911 Board, said the board had discussed supplementing the sheriff's 911 budget to help pay for the dispatchers' salaries, but the board cannot pay for all nine salaries by itself.

"The 911 people have been very cooperative in discussions, but it's unrealistic to think that they will just walk in and offer to pay for the dispatchers," Churchich said.

These calls must be handled by trained personnel, Churchich said.

"If you don't have the person on the other end to pick up the telephone, it isn't worth anything," Churchich said. "And if I can't pull someone off the road to answer the phones."

The county finance committee has said it will not pay for additional dispatchers and that Churchich would have to absorb the cost in the department's operating budget. That budget is expected to see only a 1.4 percent increase for the 1991 fiscal year, although current negotiations with the deputies' union are expected to inflate that amount, Monday said.

"The biggest users of 911 will be the citizens of the unincorporated areas," Churchich said.

"If 911 doesn't pay it all, and the county doesn't want to pay for anything, we won't see the top-rate system we sold the voters. It won't happen," the sheriff said.

ICC hears arguments on residential rate increases

By Dennis McMurray Staff writer

SPRINGFIELD — A proposal by Springfield Power Co. to raise residential customer electric power rates for the benefit of industrial and other business users is under fire from both camps.

IP is seeking an 11.4 percent residential rate increase and a 5.8 percent boost for industrial users.

Attorneys for the utility argued Wednesday that the proposal would continue steps to reduce the subsidy paid by industrial customers while avoiding too heavy a burden on residential users.

Consumer groups urged the Illinois Commerce Commission to reduce residential rates and boost industrial rates.

They argued that IP's industrial rates are among the lowest in the nation while residential rates have climbed 75 percent since 1980.

An IP industrial customer group contended that because the cost of delivering electricity to its factories is cheaper than supplying it to homes, industries are actually subsidizing IP's residential customers by $80 million a year.

The manufacturers want industrial rates substantially cut and residential rates increased, he said.

Those taking positions on the issue cited studies by experts they had sponsored at earlier ICC hearings and attacked the validity of other studies.

ICC members heard nearly three hours of oral argument by lawyers Wednesday on how they should redistribute rates among the various ICC customer groups.

The total amount of new annual revenue IP will receive is not at issue. That was decided on June 6 when the ICC granted the company about $75 million more a year.

At that time, the commission approved a flat 7.7 percent average increase for all customer classes but said it would consider a redistribution among the various groups by Nov. 6.

ICC hearing examiner Charles Lippa, who heard all the previous testimony, recommended the commission change the flat 7.7 percent to 9.6 percent for residential customers and 7.1 percent for industrial and commercial customers.

However, the industrial customer group, represented by IP's attorney Eric Robertson, urged the commission to raise residential rates by 16.2 percent and industrial rates by 3 percent.

The consumer representatives, including the Citizens Utility Board, said IP's attorney general's office, are instead proposing that residential rate increases be held to 5.3 percent and industrial and other customer group rates be boosted 12 percent.

Citizens Utility Board attorney Susan Satten said residential customers already pay about twice as much per kilowatt hour as industrial customers, a gap 52 percent higher than the national average.

Robertson responded that Satten's claim reflected only the fact that it is much cheaper to deliver electricity to large-volume industrial customers.

The ICC has been more progressive than other states in moving toward cost-based pricing, Robertson said.

But Assistant Attorney General Robert Cushing argued that, because most of the rate increase was for the construction cost of IP's Clinton nuclear plant, most of it should be paid by industrial customers because they primarily benefited.

The commission also heard arguments on proposed changes in the fixed "customer charge" that 10 people used to pay in addition to the per-kilowatt-hour energy charges.

The customer charge went to $12.94 per month after the June rate order.

IP is proposing to drop it back to $12 per month, while Lippa is proposing a $12.56 per month charge and the consumer groups are urging that it be cut to $6 per month.

Portell, judges at odds over circuit clerk's 'retirement'

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard "Butch" Portell apparently won't retire in January.

Last January, Portell said he would retire in January 1991 if 3rd Judicial Circuit judges agreed to appoint a "qualified and suitable" successor.

The judges have not responded to two requests for a meeting, he said last week.

If there is no agreement on a successor, "I won't resign in January," Portell said.

Jackpot draws fans to Fairmount

By Ed Gurney Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — A phenomenon similar to lottery fever began gripping thoroughbred racing fans last week as a special jackpot grew to more than $500,000 at Fairmount Park Racetrack in Collinsville.

Thousands of bettors took chances on the Twin Super, an exotic wager established earlier in the thoroughbred meet. The jackpot had grown to $555,708 for races Tuesday afternoon. If there was no winner Tuesday, the total is expected to swell by about another $40,000 for tonight's races.

"It's definitely been exciting," public relations spokesman Mary Orzack said. "It's all everyone's been talking about around here."

The biggest previous payoff at Fairmount was $236,000, won by debt of gratitude for the good work they've done over the years," he said.

He said he could think of eight to 10 people who would be acceptable to him.

Portell, a Democrat who lives in Collinsville, will be 74 in January. He is a former Granite Cityan.

The veteran official said he would prefer to retire in good stead. He has been married to a four-year term eight times since 1960.

sidered by the Illinois State Police Department of Criminal Investigation and the City of St. Louis, pending investigations.

The two offered no resistance at the time of the arrest, according to Venice police. A woman who was a passenger in the car at the time of the arrest was released, police said.

Police reported a small quantity of a substance believed to be an illegal drug was found in the car and sent to the state crime lab for evaluation.

Venice police said the suspects have been viewed by the victims of several "bump-and-run" traffic crash/robberies in Illinois and one in Missouri.

DR. REINHARDT — Chiropractic Care — 3717 F CROSSROADS PLAZA 452-3090

In the robberies, the victims' cars were struck from behind by a car. When the victims stopped their vehicles and got out to inspect the damage, they were robbed. The robberies usually took place at night on remote stretches of highway.

Last week, Illinois State Police issued a warning to motorists, citing more than a dozen recent "bump-and-run" incidents in Madison and St. Clair counties.

Motorists involved in minor collisions in remote areas were advised to continue driving until they reach a well-lighted, populated area.

Wilkins was also wanted on an unrelated pending warrant in St. Clair County for allegedly obstructing justice. Bond was set at $10,000 on that charge.

Wilkins is in custody in St. Clair County.

Hicks is being held by East St. Louis police.

Inflation triggers 5.4 % Social Security increase

By Bill Hunot

Social Security Administration
Social Security Income (SSI) payments soon will increase by 5.4 percent.

The raise first will appear on Social Security checks paid Jan.
3, 1991, and on SSI checks paid
Dec. 31, 1990.

The raise is a cost of living adjustment (COLA).
This adjustment is exactly equal to the increase in the consumer price index that occurred between the third quarter of last year and the third quarter of this year.

Annual cost of living adjustment increases have been automatic for Social Security since 1972.

The raise increases the average
Social Security retirement benefit from $571 to $602 per month.

The average Social Security disability benefit will be $587 per month.

The maximum SSI monthly payment to an individual will rise from $386 to $407.

The maximum SSI for a couple will be $610, compared to $579 in 1990.

Q. I was married 23 years.
My Social Security check is very small and I know my ex-wife's benefit will be much larger.
Can I get benefits on her Social Security?

A. The requirements to get benefits as an ex-husband are the same as for an ex-wife.

Your marriage must have lasted at least 10 years. You must be unmarried. (If you married someone else after your divorce, the second marriage must be terminated.)

If your divorce was at least two years ago you can draw benefits when your ex-wife turns 62 whether she starts drawing benefits or not. If the divorce was more recent, your ex-wife must be drawing Social Security for you to get benefits as her ex-spouse.

However, if your benefit is small because you worked in a government job not covered by Social Security, you may not be able to draw a Social Security benefit as an ex-spouse.

Call 1-800-234-5772 and ask about the Government Pension Offset.

That law reduces or eliminates Social Security spouse's benefits otherwise payable to former government workers.

Q. Are there any dental bills that Medicare will pay for?

A. Very few dental services are covered by Medicare. It will not pay for cleaning, filling or extraction of teeth; or for dentures. It doesn't even help pay for more complicated procedures like root canal work or surgery for impacted teeth.

However, Medicare will help pay for services of a dentist when a medical problem is more extensive than just the teeth or the structures directly supporting them — like an injury to a jaw or other facial bone.

Medicare also will pay for a hospital stay necessitated by a severe dental problem even if the dental procedure itself is not covered.

Housing for Vietnam veterans

The St. Louis Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program will hold the grand opening of its expanded Transitional Housing Program for homeless Vietnam war veterans at 1:30 p.m. Veterans Day, Sunday, Nov. 11.

The program, which is operating in residential housing leased from the Department of Veterans Affairs on the grounds of the Jefferson Barracks VA Medical Center, assists Vietnam veterans and their families in making the transition from homelessness to self-supported living in the community.

Funding for the program is provided in part by the Agent Orange Class Assistance Program and the City of St. Louis, Office of Veterans Affairs-Homesless Veterans Reintegration Program.

For information, (314) 367-5505 can be called.

Opportunity Day Nov. 3 for veterans

The 4th annual Veterans' Opportunity Day will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3, at St. Louis Community College at Forest Park, 5600 Oakland Ave.

The event will feature a variety of free activities, including health screenings, employment and training assistance, legal services, veterans' benefit counseling and small-business assistance.

For more information, veterans may call John Samuel Tieman at (314) 647-0924.

The event is a cooperative effort by a variety of government agencies, educational institutions, veterans organizations and private citizens.

Magic House food drive slated for Nov. 11

The Magic House will sponsor a Thanksgiving food drive Sunday, Nov. 11, to collect canned goods for the St. Louis Area Food Bank. Visitors who bring a can of food to the museum at 516 South Kirkwood Road will be admitted free. The Food Bank supplies over 800 charity agencies with food for the needy.

Warriors dash Senators' hopes again

ON THE BRINK: The Warrior soccer team was close to its 14th appearance in the state finals after clinching the Edwardsville Sectional title with a 3-0 win over Springfield on Saturday. Celebrating with the trophy are captains (left to right) Larry Strader, Skip Birdsong (obscured by trophy), Pat Rich and Jeff Stephens.

Best post-season effort yet yields sectional win

By Dave Whaley

Executive sports editor

EDWARDSVILLE — It's becoming all too familiar for Phil Eck.

Three years in a row Eck has brought the Springfield High soccer team to the Edwardsville Sectional, and three times the Warriors have been there to dash the Senators' hopes.

Granite City played its best post-season game yet Saturday with a 3-0 win over Springfield and advanced to Tuesday's Granite City Super-Sectional at The Gauntlet against Collinsville. The Kahoks (14-3-2) advanced with a 5-1 win over Belleville West in the Collinsville Sectional finals on Saturday as Steve Vandye scored three goals.

The Warriors used some tried-and-true formulas for Saturday's win, giving coach Gene Baker his 13th sectional title and putting themselves on the brink of their 14th trip to state in 19 years. Brian Buske gave Granite City an early lead at 2:24, then the Warriors hung on for much of the rest of the game after it got physical and downright nasty at times.

Matt Loftus and Skip Birdsong added late goals and the Senators went home at 20-3-3.

"We were still in it until the second goal," said Eck. "There was still a lot of time left when they got that one (15 minutes), but you're not going to score two goals against Granite City in that amount of time."

"I'm really proud of the kids," said Baker. "They showed a lot of emotional control. We got the early lead and everyone contributed from there."

The key was stopping forward Bryce Bilyeu (37 goals this year) and midfielder Dan Weiss (22 goals).

"We had Jimmy McKeehan and Jeff Stephens take half each of Bilyeu," said Baker. "Then Ryan (Reeves) and Jason (Maxfield) were on the other side. Kevin Lyons (Kevin Lyons) They have some exceptional players who should be all-state, but it was a good defensive effort on our part."

The Warriors outshot the Senators 15-5 and limited Springfield's chances. Goalie Tim Henson's hardest moment came on Bilyeu's hard shot from the left side just after Loftus had made it 2-0. Henson dove to make the stop and rolled on to another shutout.

"It was a great game on defense," said Buske. "Pat (Rich) and everybody else was really talking back there. I was marking Weiss, and I thought he was the key to their game."

In addition to another good defensive job, Buske again came through offensively. As usual, it came from a restart. Dan Ter-

Harriers finish solid year with eighth at sectional

By Brian Henry

SPRINGFIELD — For those who believe in omens, it would have been hard to bet against the East St. Louis Lincoln Tiger cross country team Saturday.

Aside from being the top team in southern Illinois, there were a few other interesting intangibles in the Tigers' convincing win in the Springfield Lamphier Sectional First, the meet was held in Lincoln Park, in the heart of Honest Abe's long-time residence. And now the Tigers will get a chance to show the entire Land of Lincoln how good they really are in the state finals Saturday in Peoria.

For the Warriors, meanwhile, it was an improvement over last year's disappointing sectional performance. But 247 points and eighth place in the 20-team field still didn't get anyone from Granite City a ticket to the state finals. Still, the Warriors firmly established themselves as the No. 2 team behind Lincoln in the metro east this year.

"I knew the boys would run well today," said Lincoln coach Leonard Manley. "We'll have to run 101 percent at Peoria. Where that will get us I don't know until they come through the chute."

The Tigers were led by late-season addition Marcus Ferrell, who took third overall with a time of 15:43 on the three-mile course. The Tigers totaled 64 points, well ahead of Normal Community's 130.

"Marcus ran a good race, he really stood out," said Manley.

Making the trip to Peoria with Lincoln and Normal will be Decatur MacArthur (175 points), Jacksonville (192) and Springfield Sacred Heart-Griffin (207). The top five teams plus the top seven individuals from non-qualifying teams advance from the sectional to the finals. Individual qualifiers were Marion's Bob Brunden (1st, 15:21), Alton's Ramon Lacey (2nd, 15:27), Civic Memorial's Wally Gregory (4th, 15:43), Rantoul's Jason Gass (7th, 15:57), Carbondale's Chris Monty (8th, 15:57), Springfield's Todd Maynard (9th, 15:59) and Herrin's Steve Watson (10th, 15:59).

Granite City's top finisher was junior Lance Reynolds, who took 19th with a time of 16:16. Despite another solid season and a year to go in his prep career, Reynolds was not pleased.

"I thought I was prepared, but it turns out I wasn't," he said. "Maybe I just wasn't ready mentally. I don't know what happened."

Other finishers for the Warriors were Justin Stallings (51st, 16:58), Brian Reed (53rd, 17:03), Brian Seiz (60th, 17:10), Chris Garriott (115th, 17:50), Mark Chapman (123rd, 18:03) and Justin Rayl (127th, 18:29).

"They ran fairly well, but it just wasn't good enough to qualify," said coach Dave McClain. "I know Lance was a little disappointed, but running a 16:16 at that sectional was pretty good. Now he knows what he'll have to do next year."

The Warriors were running at less than full strength as Stallings was under the weather, and Garriott (shin) and Chapman (tooth) had injuries. A mid-season knee injury to No. 5 runner Kelly Miller also hurt.

"He could have helped quite a bit," said McClain. He could have given Chapman and Garriott a chance to get healed."

Still, McClain was pleased with the season. The Warriors won four invitations, beat Lincoln for the first time, and finished lower than third only twice — both times on the Lincoln Park course.

"I'll take this kind of season anytime," McClain said. "We had a real good season and, more importantly, the kids know they have a good year."

"Before we came in we knew we'd be good," said assistant coach Tom Haefer. "The boys worked hard and had the right attitude from day one."

Reynolds, Seiz, Miller and Reed all return next season.

"We've got some people com-

'Itchy' Jones guest speaker at park sports award banquet

Richard "Itchy" Jones, the new baseball coach at the University of Illinois, will be the featured guest speaker at the Granite City Park District Sports Award Banquet on Thursday.

The banquet begins at 6:15 p.m. at the Granite City Township Hall. All teams who won championships in the park district baseball, softball and tennis events for the past year will be honored, along with special awards.

Granite City native Dal Maxvill, the general manager of the Cardinals, is a regular speaker at the banquet and will be on hand again. Jones was the baseball coach at SIU-Carbondale for many years until recently being named the head coach at Illinois.

Walker's interception return saves Trojans from winless year

By Mike Blackshire

EDWARDSVILLE — On a gorgeous autumn afternoon, the Trojans ended a bad season on a good note as they defeated the Metro East Lutheran Knights 14-7 on Saturday.

The Trojans (1-7) avoided a winless season with some inspired play in the second half, led by seniors Greg Voloski, Federico Walker and Tony Treadway. Madison dressed only 18 players for the game. Not many people wanted to come out and watch, or play for, the previously winless team. A number of players were AWOL for the game, including starting quarterback Cernyn Thomas.

But those faithful Madison players and fans who did come out had a great time and enjoyed an exciting and entertaining halfgame as Walker returned an interception 15 yards in the fourth quarter for the winning points.

"The guys came back in the second half and played well," Madison coach De Smith said. "It's nice to win the last ball game. Hopefully that will build a little confidence for next year. Our young kids got a lot of experience this year. We had to play a lot of freshman and they are going to get a lot better over the next three years."

Mistakes and penalties hurt the Trojans, as usual. Two touchdowns were called back because of penalties. But instead of giving up, the Trojans overcame and outplayed the Knights in the second half.

After a failed fake punt attempt by the Trojans in the first quarter, the Knights had excellent field position at the Madison 39 on their first possession. MELH marched 39 yards on seven plays for a score. Junior quarterback Aaron Kober ran it in from two yards out.

But the Madison defense started to take over. In the second half, the Trojans only gave up one first down. The Knights started the second half at their own 17 and quickly found themselves fourth and 26 from their own 1. A punt into the wind left the Trojans with first down at the MELH 23.

On a fourth and two from the 15, Walker—who started at quarterback in the place of the missing Thomas—ran for an apparent touchdown. That was called back because of an illegal formation penalty and then Madison failed to convert the ensuing fourth and seven.

The Trojan defense held and the offense regained possession at the MELH 40. This time the Trojans made it count as Treadway ran 15 yards for a score. With 3:49 left in the third quarter, Madison trailed 7-6 when the two-point conversion failed.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Treadway ran for an apparent 41-yard touchdown. But the play was called back because of a foolish clipping penalty committed 30 yards behind the ball. The drive stalled when the Trojans were stopped at the 4. But the Knights tried to pass their way out of the hole, and Walker intercepted a desperate toss by Kober and walked into the end zone. Walker added a two-point conversion run and the Trojans led 14-7 with 6:47 left.

The Knights had one last chance after a 28-yard completion. But they were sacked twice and misfired on four passing attempts.

NOTES: The Madison High School Booster Club is sponsoring a fund raiser this Friday, with all proceeds going to athletic programs. A chicken and beer dinner with live music will be held Friday at 7 p.m. at the AMVETS hall on Kennedy Drive in Madison. Tickets are $10 per person and $15 per couple. For ticket information, call Madison High School at 578-7010.

'Coachable' Buske gets job done

By Dave Whaley

Executive sports editor

Every successful team has one. He's the player whose work ethic stands out even more than his talent.

For the Granite City High School soccer team, Brian Buske is the blue collar worker. He has the talent, to be sure. His 11 goals on the season would attest to that. But it's his tireless effort which has impressed fans and coaches alike in 1990.

Buske is just Buske, game in and game out," said Warrior coach Gene Baker. "That succinct description is just one reason why Buske is the East Side Publications Journal Athlete of the Week."

The senior forward has usually been given the job of marking the opposition's top scoring threat. He has done that to near-perfection, but he's also found time to get some work done at the other end of the field. Buske's 11 goals place him behind only Skip Birdsong for the team lead, and he had scored the deciding goal in three of the Warriors' four post-season victories near the end to Tuesday's super-sectional meeting with Collinsville.

His latest was a goal just 2:24 into Granite City's 3-0 Edwardsville sectional title win over Springfield on Saturday.

"It was a great pass from Skip and I got a good settle off my chest," Buske said. "The goalie was back on the blue and I had the corner to shoot at."

Nothing flashy in that description or in Buske's play. He just gets the job done. He scored the first goal in a 7-0 win over Wood River in regional play Oct. 20, then scored the second goal in a 2-1 win over Alton on Thursday.

"Brian is just a great example of fortitude," Baker said. "He has certainly exceeded our expectations. There are times we think he's about done and he'll come up with one more great run late in the game. He has toughness and smarts, but mostly he's extremely coachable."

Others considered for Athlete of the Week were: Marlow Ferguson, East St. Louis Lincoln football; Stephanie Jones, East St. Louis High volleyball; and Kelli Blissenbach, Cahokia volleyball.

Each week one varsity athlete from Granite City, Madison, Venice, Cahokia, Duplo, East St. Louis or Lincoln high schools is selected as the East Side Publications Journal Athlete of the Week. Selected athletes are eligible for consideration as the Journal-KSHE Athlete of the Month.

11 area teams open grid playoffs today

Along with all the ghosts and goblins, there will be 192 high school football teams in Illinois going out on Halloween night in search of a few treats.

Half of them will get tricked, however, in first-round play of the IHSA playoffs. There are a total of 11 metro east teams in the playoffs, including four unbeaten teams — two of them looking to defend 1989 state championships.

Foremost in the spotlight are the East St. Louis Flyers, coming off yet another unbeaten season and in search of their fifth state title in eight years. The Flyers opened a minor setback over the weekend when it was announced they would have to forfeit three non-conference victories in 1989 due to eligibility problems involving running back Chris Moore.

But East Side seems primed for a run to their seventh state title game in eight seasons. The Flyers open up the Class 6A playoffs tonight in Danville. The other defending state champion in the area is Belleville Althoff (8-0) in Class 3A. The Crusaders, (See PLAYOFFS, Page 4B) led by spectacular running back Hickey Thompson and a smothering defense, travel to Sparta (7-2) tonight.

Other unbeaten area teams are Duplo (6-0) and Mascoutah (9-0). The Tigers open the Class 2A playoffs with a home game against Albion Edwards County (7-2). The Indians host Salem (6-3).

Bellevue East, which got into the playoffs with a 47-6 win over Granite City on Friday, begins with a 1 p.m. game today at East St. Louis Lincoln (6-3). The Tigers got in with an 18-6 win over Kankakee Bishop McNamara (7-2) on Saturday. McNamara is in the Class 3A playoffs.

Lincoln is a sentimental favorite because head coach Jim Monken suffered a stroke three weeks ago. The Tigers are being coached by assistants Lloyd Dunne and Stan Wojcik. But the East-Lincoln winner will have to play East St. Louis in Saturday's second round.

O'Fallon (7-2) and Edwardsville (6-3) are the only two area teams in the Class 5A playoffs. The Panthers and Tigers play in Edwardsville tonight. Jerseyville (7-2) of the Mississippi Valley Conference will host Springfield Griffin (9-0) in 4A, with the winner playing the Mascoutah-Salem winner Saturday.

Freeburg (8-1) will play at DuQuoin (8-1) in 3A, with the winner facing the Alhouth-Sparta winner in the second round. The other area team in the playoffs is Columbia (7-2) in 2A. The Eagles, featuring one of the top offenses in the area, play at Sesser-Valer (8-1) tonight, with the winner drawing the Duplo-Albio Edwards County winner Saturday.

There are 31 unbeaten teams entering the playoffs. Two teams — Eureka and Palatine — got in with 5-4 records after winning their conferences.

Stephens went down hard in the penalty area twice, but got no call. On both occasions the Warriors were given yellow cards within seconds, first to Birdsong for a hard tackle and then to Reeves for discussing the no-call on Stephens with the officials.

"They think we're retaliating for it," said Baker. "But Jeff has to walk on his knees after this game. This guy really makes it interesting. Lyons and Isaac King did get cards for hard tackles on Larry Wright and Stephens, respectively. But the game was still in doubt before Loftus scored on his own corner kick. Birdsong went up for it, but it was ruled to have gone in off a Springfield defender for Loftus' second goal.

Deatrick MacArthur and Lincoln tied for the girls championship with 121 points, but the Lady Generals were awarded first on the tiebreaker. MacArthur and Lincoln will be joined in the finals by Carbondale, Champaign Centennial and Jacksonville. Stacy McCormack of Murphysboro won the two-mile girls race in 11:34. Three area girls qualified for the finals: O'Fallon's Rose Zagorski (9th, 12:19), Belleville West's Anne Broderson (11th, 12:31) and Highland's Janelle Torbit (12th, 12:33).

reel made a big throw-in down the right touchline to Birdsong, who crossed it and hit Buske in stride down the middle. He settled it and beat goalie Ron Sallin in the lower right corner at 2:24 for his 11th goal.

And then... "After we scored, it looked they wanted to put the game in the referees' hands," said Buske. "It was pretty rough."

Stephens went down hard in the penalty area twice, but got no call. On both occasions the Warriors were given yellow cards within seconds, first to Birdsong for a hard tackle and then to Reeves for discussing the no-call on Stephens with the officials.

"They think we're retaliating for it," said Baker. "But Jeff has to walk on his knees after this game. This guy really makes it interesting. It's the same guy who mistakenly kicked Dave DeRousse out of our (sectional) game with Collinsville in 1986 and called back two of our goals in the state semifinals last year."

Lyons and Isaac King did get cards for hard tackles on Larry Wright and Stephens, respectively. But the game was still in doubt before Loftus scored on his own corner kick. Birdsong went up for it, but it was ruled to have gone in off a Springfield defender for Loftus' second goal.

Quinn targets housing plan

By Leticia Harrison
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — Democrats Pat Quinn, candidate for state treasurer, and Jay Hoffman, candidate for state representative, proposed a comprehensive $70-million economic development plan during a press conference last week at the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 309 hall in Collinsville.

The cornerstone of the plan is the use of $70 million of the $4 billion the state has in investments to construct and rehabilitate 7,000 housing units throughout the state.

Quinn said that $30 million would be earmarked for single-family housing, another $30 million would go towards multi-unit housing and $10 million would be used in a pilot program for single-room occupancies (SRO) for people threatened with homelessness.

Also under the plan, as state treasurer, Quinn would place public deposits in financial institutions which agree to low-interest loans and lines of credit to small businesses less than three years old with less than 150 employees.

The candidates said the plan would create jobs and affordable housing throughout the state.

Quinn said, "Housing starts have dropped, credit has dried up, builders can't build and homeowners can't sell."

He said that building the state's economy should start "from the grassroots up."

Quinn said the federal and state governments have spent the past 10 years giving huge tax breaks to big businesses and corporations when they should have been investing in housing.

"Instead of investing in these hotels who go belly-up and don't pay their bills on time, we're better off investing in housing," Quinn said.

"Let the private economy do that."

"The average middle-class family often cannot afford to buy a house," he said.

Hoffman, who became a homeowner only last year, agreed.

"It's tough for (young) families to ensure that they have a nice place for their kids (and are) meeting the bills and student loan payments," Hoffman said.

"I think the time has come that we use existing dollars to create jobs," he said.

According to Quinn, Illinois is number 48 out of 50 states in creating new jobs.

"That's a terrible statistic," he said.

Quinn declared that "as treasurer, I will encourage the financial institutions to provide the resources needed to make the state the decade of home ownership and affordable housing for seniors, young families, renters and those threatened with homelessness."

Quinn's plan also calls for creation of the Illinois Housing Partnership and appointment of a housing advocate from the existing staff in the treasurer's office.

Quinn noted that he helped to create the Citizens Utility Board, a group that fights utility rate hikes.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF DRAFT PERMIT

Public Notice Number SPN02019150 is hereby given by Illinois EPA, Division of Water Pollution Control, Permit Section, 2200 Churchill Road, P.O. Box 19276, Springfield, Illinois 62719, (herein Agency) that a draft National Pollutant Discharge Elimination system (NPDES) Permit Number 00000229 has been prepared under 40 CFR 124.6 (d) for National City Steel, Granite City Steel, 20th and Street, Granite City, Illinois 62040, for discharge into Horseshoe Lake from the Granite City Steel, 20th and Street, Granite City, Illinois 62040, (Madison County). The applicant operates an existing integrated steel facility. The facility discharges 25 MGD of treated process water into Horseshoe Lake.

The application, draft permit and other documents are available for inspection and may be copied at a cost of 25 cents per page at the Agency between 9:30 A.M. and 3:30 P.M. Monday through Friday. A fact sheet containing more detailed information is available at no charge. For further information, call the Public Notice Unit at 217-762-1660.

Interested persons are invited to submit written comments on the draft permit to the Agency at the above address. The NPDES Permit and written Public Notice numbers must appear on each comment page. All comments received by the Agency not later than 28 days from the date of this publication shall be considered in making the final decision regarding permit issuance.

Any interested person may submit written request for a public hearing on the draft permit, stating their name and address, the nature of the issues proposed to be raised and the grounds upon which the request is made with regard to these issues in the hearing. Such requests must be received by the Agency not later than 30 days from the date of this publication.

If written comments and/or request indicate a significant degree of public interest in the draft permit, the permitting authority may, at its discretion, hold a public hearing. Public hearing will be given 30 days before any public hearing.

Investigator: Oil firms 'playing games'

Major oil companies may be playing a game with gas prices to give them greater control of the market, a state investigator has said.

They may have disguised price hikes after Iraq's invasion of Kuwait to make it appear they were using restraint, said Lee Freeman, a private anti-trust attorney and general counsel for the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

But, he said, the companies' pricing strategy could lead to greater control of the petroleum industry by forcing independent service station dealers out of business.

Freeman is leading a state probe into potential price gouging since the Iraqi invasion Aug. 2.

"I'm now saying this investigation will reveal the real evil in what happened is that the majors have increased prices to independents and that caused everybody to think they were being patient in the amount of (their) increases," Freeman said.

Freeman, appointed a special assistant attorney general by Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan, is investigating the pricing of Amoco Oil Co., Shell Oil Co., Marathon Oil Co., Exxon Corp. and Texaco Oil Co.

Oil company spokesmen said Freeman's pricing facts are essentially correct but his conclusions were off base. Amoco also criticized Freeman for making his comments before the investigation is concluded.

Freeman discussed the progress of his investigation in a telephone interview. He noted that he has not uncovered any illegal activity.

One thing that seems very important, a very strange part of the whole business, is that the gasoline prices of the majors didn't jump for a week or so (after the invasion). What did jump was the wholesale price the majors charge jobbers who serve the independent stations," Freeman said. "That jumped 30 to 35 cents a gallon within a week."

Oil company spokesmen say the pricing facts are essentially correct but the investigator's conclusions are off base.

"The unsettling fact that the majors began charging their wholesale customers more than their own retail rates means a great many independents are going out of business. That's one of the things we want to investigate more thoroughly."

"It's evident the majors are seeking a wider market by getting rid of competition favorable to consumers."

Pump prices for a gallon of self-serve regular unleaded gasoline have rocketed from 85 cents in this area, before the crisis up to $1.38 now.

Independent stations that previously had sold retail gas for about 10 cents to 15 cents a gallon less than major oil company retail outlets are now priced about the same, Freeman said.

"That's a good theory, but what actually happened in this market is Mobil, Amoco and Shell dragged their feet on price increases to both jobbers and their retail outlets," said Bob Schrimpf, president of Hartford Wood River Terminal. "I compete against the majors and refineries all the time. He's going to have some difficulty finding what he's looking for."

Some oil company representatives said wholesale prices to jobbers increased more rapidly because that market is influenced more by the spot market, which reacts to events such as the invasion.

In a prepared statement, Amoco said, "After the invasion, prices in jobber channels rose faster than in other channels for a number of reasons, especially competition, and Amoco responded to competition."

Citing the company's cooperation in the investigation, the statement continued, "We are dismayed that the attorney general's investigator is discussing so-called preliminary findings with the press prior to making official conclusions."

"We find it ironic that the original intent of the inquiry was into price gouging but that the implication now exists that we may have been pricing too low."

Shell spokesman H.R. Hutchins said, "We own less than 6 percent of our own stations. It is not correct to assume that we are doing anything akin to putting anybody out of business."

Marathon Oil Co. has about 400 independent dealers in Illinois and about 200 to 250 company-operated stations under such names as Speedway and Checker. "If we were actually doing (what Freeman says), that would be cutting our own throat," spokesman Bill Ryder said. "There's no question prices did rise steeply, but they rose to all classes of trades. Marathon is not doing something to the detriment of one at the expense of others."

Les Rogers, an Exxon spokesman, said, "We have no desire to reduce the number of our dealer representatives. Dealers are the backbone of our service station business."

Just why Exxon is part of the investigation is unclear. Rogers said Exxon does not market motor fuel on the retail or wholesale level in Illinois, but he did acknowledge the company probably would respond to an inquiry.

Texaco officials could not be reached for comment.

Freeman said he hopes to have some preliminary results to his investigation within a few weeks, but added, "These investigations take a long time."

"I have at least a million sheets of paper. A lot of it's garbage, but I have to look at it. That's a tedious job."

He said he would also ask the companies for more information.

Schrimpf said, "I've been through a lot of government investigations. On the whole, the petroleum industry has been pretty moral with pricing, more so than most think."

Fitness topic at the YMCA

The Tri-City Area YMCA announces that new sessions of Fitness Fantasia (aerobic dance) will begin the week of Nov. 5.

The Fitness Fantasia program incorporates dance steps to modern, popular, music, to provide both cardiovascular and weight-loss exercise.

The class will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays at 6:30 p.m., or Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p.m. Kris Long and Becky Holland are the instructors for the course, which lasts eight weeks and is held at the YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave.

For more information, call the YMCA at 876-7200.

Free colon screening offered in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS — The section of colorectal surgery at St. Louis University Medical Center is urging all men and women to undergo an annual exam for the detection of colorectal cancer. Free colorectal screenings will be scheduled at the offices of St. Louis University's Multispecialty Group, Suite 110 at St. Mary's Health Center, 6400 Clayton Road.

The screenings will take place between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. Nov. 2, 9, 16 and 30. Colorectal cancer is the second leading cause of cancer deaths in the United States, second only to lung cancer. In fact, statistics indicate that more than 120,000 people will be diagnosed with colorectal cancer annually. "The United States has one of the highest incidences of colorectal cancer in the world," said Anthony M. Vernava III, M.D., assistant professor of surgery and section chief of colorectal surgery, St. Louis University School of Medicine. "Because the cancer usually goes undetected, many people don't take seriously the importance of annual exams or screenings. However, the exams allow for early detection and, therefore, more effective treatment options for the patient."

According to the National Cancer Institute, the number of colorectal cancer cases increases dramatically with age, especially after the age of 50. It also states that the cancer is linked to a low intake of dietary fiber and a high intake of fats. Although the reasons are not yet known, colorectal cancer appears to be rising among the black population. Some symptoms to watch for include:

- Dark mahogany, red or bright red blood in stool;
 - Change in bowel habits;
 - Abdominal discomfort;
 - Urgent or painful need to have a bowel movement;
 - Feeling of incomplete emptying of rectum after a bowel movement;
 - Unexplained weight loss, fatigue or paleness.
- Any individual wishing to be checked for colorectal cancer should have had an enema prior to coming to the screening. Participants will have three different tests performed. Physicians will conduct a digital rectal examination and a sigmoidoscopy, a procedure in which a small instrument is inserted into the bowel to visually examine the rectum and the lower portion of the colon.

The patient is given an instructional packet to take home that explains how to take three stool samples for further testing. The patient will be notified by mail as to the outcome of the test.

Those who wish more information may call or wish to make an appointment for the free screening should call the St. Louis University Multispecialty Group at (314) 645-6051.

Aspirin in children may trigger tragedy

The flu season is approaching. Under normal circumstances influenza is not a life-threatening illness and does not result in serious complications.

On rare occasions, however, a child who has been given aspirin during a bout with flu (or chicken pox) will develop Reye Syndrome.

Reye Syndrome, a rare reaction of the body to the combination of aspirin with a flu or chicken pox virus, is a life-threatening condition. It causes an abnormal accumulation of fat in the liver and other organs, accompanied by severe swelling of the brain. Although it affects all organs, the most serious effects are in the liver and brain.

Reye Syndrome is a children's disease, with the majority of cases occurring in the 5-to-14 age group. It nearly always occurs anywhere from two days to two weeks after a child has recovered from a case of flu or chicken pox.

The first symptoms of Reye Syndrome are persistent or prolonged "explosive" vomiting, listlessness, loss of energy, abnormal drowsiness or unusual combativeness.

In the second stage of Reye Syndrome, the child will exhibit personality changes, such as irritability or aggressive behavior. The child may seem disoriented or confused, and may become delirious or unconscious, or go into convulsions.

If a child develops even one of these symptoms — especially if he or she is just recovering from flu or chicken pox — the parent should get medical help immediately. Without early diagnosis and prompt, appropriate treatment, Reye Syndrome is often fatal. The child can progress from the persistent vomiting to unconsciousness and death in just a few days.

One way to help prevent Reye Syndrome is to not give children aspirin, or any product that contains aspirin, while they are ill with flu or chicken pox. Present medical evidence shows that giving aspirin or aspirin-containing products during a case of flu or chicken pox will make a child more susceptible to the development of Reye Syndrome.

Parents should use one of the aspirin-free products to reduce their child's fever or ease the aches, pains, coughing, sneezing and runny nose.

Peanut Butter Lovers Stick To It

By Janice Denham
Journal Food Editor

Research should be done to find out whether adults, who are the most persevering—displaying the most "stick-to-itiveness" in grown-up pursuits—ate large amounts of peanut butter when they were children.

Why should anyone ever like it? It is obvious in flavor, sticky in sensation and blah-brown in color. Still, it is a champion on the school table from pre-kindergarten to decorator level.

"We use it for snacks and also as a menu item," says Sue Gatchel, assistant director of Tower Grove Baptist Day Care. "Sometimes we do put it out and let them go at it. Some like to put it on an apple instead of a cracker or bread."

Children younger than 4 find its stickiness "more of a struggle" to handle, she says.

Gatchel and her teachers find children are more likely to lick out the peanut butter when it is spread on celery, whereas more eat the whole snack when it is on an apple slice, so they prefer serving it on apple.

Karen Quinn, director of Florissant Assembly of God Day Care, encourages using it for "glue" in apple or carrot puzzles. Just slice up the fruit or vegetable, then let the children piece it back together, using the peanut butter to keep it together. When they are ready to finish the project, they can eat the puzzle. Her children are partial to traditional peanut butter with jelly for a sandwich or on crackers.

Sally Dischinger, director of Parkway United Nursery School, says the greatest treat is to let children shape a peanut mixture like dough. The basic recipe is the same as that of no-bake peanut butter cookies: $\frac{1}{2}$ cup peanut butter, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup honey, 1 cup wheat germ and 2 tablespoons nonfat dry milk. For several pairs of hands, the easiest way to mix it is to empty out a jar of peanut butter, put in about a cup of dry milk, add some wheat germ if desired, then add enough honey to make it gooey. Children can play with it or eat it. If they make real cookies from it, they can roll it in coconut or decorate it with raisins.

Those educated in peanut-butter culture know that a peanut is not, strictly speaking, a nut but a highly nutritious underground legume. Its outer shell is the dried pod of the plant and contains the seeds or "nuts." Making peanut butter at home by grinding nuts to butter texture in a blender or food processor is one way to avoid salt or other additives found in some purchased peanut butter, but it must be refrigerated because it also does not contain extra protection against spoilage.

Each year the makers of Ziploc sandwich bags hold a national sandwich day contest when children submit creative sandwich recipes. For judging, Monkey Shine-wich was a finalist from a first-grade class in Wisconsin in the 1987 contest. Crunchy Double Butter Sandwich was submitted last year by a first-grader in Mississippi. A fifth-grade student won the 1987 contest with Berry Bananawich.

The contest, to be held Nov. 1 this year, may result in new ways to layer peanut butter for lunch and snacks. It even may tilt the scale toward crunchy peanut butter, which attracts 40 percent of buyers compared to 60 percent who like it smooth.

Warn Your Kids About Kitchen Dangers

Many children make their own snacks—with or without peanut butter—by themselves at home.

Liz Walsh, manager of merchandising with cooking products for major appliances with Tappan Co., warns that some ranges can tip forward if the oven door is used as a seat or stool.

The current voluntary industry standard requires a range to remain unmoved when a 75-pound weight is placed in the center of an open door, Walsh says. "However, a moving weight of less than 75 pounds applied to the front edge of an open oven door may cause the range to tilt forward on its front feet."

This can result in burns if hot food is tipped forward. Thus, teaching children not to use an oven door this way should be included in basic safety warnings. The appliance industry also is responding.

Dave Stenkenmeyer of Don Crancer Appliances says the 1990 models of free-standing gas and electric ranges come with an anti-tipping device that can be installed. To do this, the back feet of the stove are attached to the kitchen floor.

"Some models have a device that can be installed at the same time the stove is delivered, others have one that makes another service call necessary," Stenkenmeyer says. "Perhaps in the future they will find one that works the best and all ranges will have the same kind."

MONKEY SHINE-WICH

- 1 slice whole wheat bread, trimmed to fit rye bread
- 1 oval slice rye bread
- 1 Peanut butter
- 1 banana, sliced, for eyes
- 1 handful raisins, for hair
- 1 dried apricot, for nose
- 2 cherries, for ears
- 2 oatmeal cookies, for ears

Spread peanut butter on slice of wheat bread. Top with slice of rye bread. Decorate with banana, raisins, apricot, cherries and cookies. Use trimmed crust for mouth. Attach face pieces with peanut butter.

CRUNCHY DOUBLE BUTTER SANDWICH

- 2 slices whole wheat bread
- 2 Apple butter
- 2 Peanut butter
- 2 Crispy cereal

Spread apple butter on one slice of bread. Spread peanut butter on other slice. Sprinkle with crispy cereal (Rice Krispies or Cheerios suggested.) Put bread slices together and put in a sandwich bag.

BERRY BANANAWICH

- 1 croissant
- Marshmallow creme
- Peanut butter
- $\frac{1}{2}$ banana, sliced
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup strawberries, fresh or frozen, sliced

Slice croissant for sandwich. Heat in 300° oven 5 minutes. Spread marshmallow creme on top half of croissant. Spread peanut butter on bottom half of croissant. Layer sliced banana on peanut butter. Layer sliced strawberries on top of banana. Put together croissant halves. Cut sandwich in half. Put into resealable sandwich bag. Eat with a glass of milk, if desired.

LEGUMEVILLE MUFFINS

- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup milk
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup peanut butter
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup oil
- 2 cups buttermilk baking mix
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup raisins, if desired

Prepare muffin tin by spraying cups with nonstick cooking spray or lining with paper baking cups.

In medium bowl, combine milk, sugar, egg, peanut butter and oil. Blend well. Stir in baking mix, stirring well until mix is moistened. Blend in raisins. Fill muffin cups two-thirds full with batter. Bake at 375° for 16 to 18 minutes.

Microwave directions: Reduce oil to 2 tablespoons. Combine milk, sugar, egg, peanut butter and oil. Blend well. Add baking mix. Stir well until mix is moistened. Line microwave muffin dish with 6 paper muffin cups. Fill paper cups half full. Microwave 6 muffins at a time, uncovered, on high power 2 to 4 minutes until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

Makes 12 muffins.

Step in kitchen raises meal to low-sodium food example

Those who pass on the salt shaker and salty snacks still save lots of flavor. Although canned foods used to be generous with sodium, they now deliver less than the same products did a few years ago.

Manufacturers also have made many low- and low-sodium varieties—from corn and peas to soups and seafoods—available. By adding herbs and spices in the kitchen, a dish can be created that not only fits a person's nutrition requirements, but suits taste preferences and saves time in the kitchen.

To dress up favorite low-salt canned vegetables, add a bit of lemon, oregano, basil or garlic. Heat the vegetables in a microwave or on a conventional stove top, then serve. For a topping on broiled fish, pork, lamb or poultry, drain, then process in a food processor or blender the contents of one can (15½ ounces) of pineapple and 2 tablespoons minced cilantro.

Most canned foods and all low-sodium foods offer nutrition labeling. By simply checking the label, it is easy to determine the amount of sodium each canned product contains.

Here is a sample of low-sodium dishes that can be served to a small family throughout the day—Hash Brown Scramble for breakfast, Curried Cream of Chicken Soup when the moon bell rings and Scalloped Tomatoes that goes well alongside Baked Potatoes With Pineapple Cilantro Relish.

Hash brown scramble

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced onion
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced red or green bell pepper
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. oil
- 1 can (8 oz.) sliced potatoes, drained
- 1 can (7 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained
- Pinch thyme leaves
- 2 eggs, beaten
- Pinch pepper

In large skillet, saute onion and bell pepper in oil 2 minutes. Add potatoes, corn and thyme. Cook over medium heat 3 to 5 minutes until potatoes are golden.

Move potato mixture to one side of skillet. Add eggs to skillet. When eggs are almost cooked, gently stir into potato mixture. Season with pepper.

Makes 2 servings, about 200 calories, 3.6 gm. protein, 9.7 gm. fat, 20.4 gm. carbohydrate and 461 mg. sodium each.

Curried cream of chicken soup

- 1 can (10½ oz.) reduced-sodium cream of chicken soup
- 1 soup can skim milk
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. curry powder
- 2 to 3 drops pepper sauce
- Condiments: Chopped cucumber and tomato, sliced green onions, toasted coconut

Mix soup and milk in medium saucepan. Stir in curry powder and pepper sauce. Heat over medium heat until hot.

Serve in bowls. Pass condiments to sprinkle on soup.

Makes 3 servings (about $\frac{1}{2}$ cup each): 126 calories, 4.3 gm. protein, 6 gm. fat, 12.6 gm. carbohydrate and 530.4 mg. sodium each.

Scalloped tomatoes

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup French bread cubes ($\frac{1}{2}$ inch cubes)
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced green onion and tops
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced green bell pepper
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. basil leaves
- Pinch thyme leaves
- 1 tsp. olive oil

- 1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes with no salt added, drained
- Coarsely ground pepper

Spread bread cubes on jellyroll pan. Bake in 400° oven about 5 minutes until golden.

In large skillet, saute green onion, green pepper, basil and thyme in oil 2 to 3 minutes until tender.

Stir in tomatoes and bread cubes. Heat to boiling. Cook over medium heat until bread cubes are softened, stirring frequently. Season generously with pepper.

Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Cooking comes with yen for microwave

By Kathy Hanewinkel
Home economist

While many people have a yen for stir-frying, they may not think tofu is their No. 1 ingredient.

If words like "strange" and "exotic" are typical adjectives for you about tofu, think again. Tofu is made from soybeans, a major crop in Missouri and Illinois, and is used in many dishes, many of them in the popular Far Eastern mode. It is found refrigerated in the produce department of most supermarkets, as well as in Oriental food stores.

Tofu is a high-protein food with a mild flavor and texture somewhat like the whites of hard-cooked eggs. Like the whites of hard-cooked eggs, it is cholesterol-free, which means it is an excellent food and protein source for dieters. However, tofu is an incomplete protein because it is missing one of the essential amino acids. Thus, it should be served or prepared with another protein, like rice, peanuts, pasta, cashews, eggs, meat or milk.

Stir-frying in a wok may not come easily to some people. In a microwave, it is a different story. Because a microwave is a closed system, constant stirring is neither possible nor necessary.

When microwave stir-frying, there is no hot surface, so the results are slightly different than with conventional stir-frying. For similar results, cook in a microwave browning dish. Simply preheat the browning dish, add a couple tablespoons of peanut oil and cook according to microwave directions.

Here is a delicious meatless recipe on which to practice.

Microwave stir-fry with tofu

- 1 large stalk broccoli
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chicken broth
- 2 tbsp. cornstarch
- 3 tbsp. soy sauce
- 2 tbsp. peanut oil
- 1 tsp. minced ginger
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 green onions, chopped
- 2 carrots, cut in thin strips about 2 inches long
- 1 red bell pepper, cut in $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch strips
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup peanuts or cashews

- 8 oz. tofu, drained, cut in strips $\frac{1}{2}$ inches long and $\frac{1}{2}$ inch wide
- Hot cooked rice or crispy chow mein noodles

Trim and slice broccoli stems in julienne slices. Chop flowerets.

In small bowl, combine chicken broth, cornstarch and soy sauce. Cook $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 minutes on high power in microwave oven. Stir well.

If using browning dish, preheat and continue with recipe.

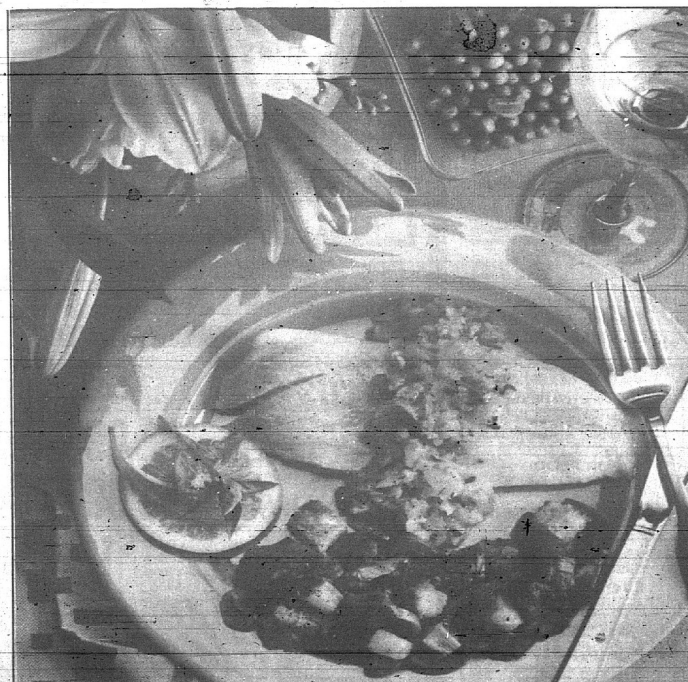

In large bowl or preheated browning dish, combine peanut oil, ginger, garlic, onion, carrot, pepper, nuts and broccoli. Microwave 3 to 5 minutes, stirring occasionally, until tender-crisp.

Add chicken broth and tofu. Microwave 2 to 4 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Sprinkle with sesame oil. Serve with hot rice or crispy noodles.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

If you have any questions or comments about microwave cooking, send them to: "Over the Waves," 1215 Fern Ridge Parkway, Suite 108, St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

LOW-SODIUM MEAL features variety of flavors, from curried soup to side dish of stewed tomatoes, while breakfast waits in the wings until morning.

Recipes

Fresh fruit crisp

1 cup uncooked oats
 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 1/2 cup margarine, melted
 1 tsp. cinnamon
 2 tbs. flour
 1 cup water
 6 cups (6 to 8 medium) apples, peaches or pears, peeled, sliced

Combine oats, 1/4 cup brown sugar, margarine and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon.
 Combine 1/2 cup brown sugar, flour, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and water. Add fruit slices, tossing to coat.

Spoon into 8-inch square glass baking dish. Top with oat mixture. Bake 40 to 45 minutes at 350° until fruit is tender.

Makes 9 servings; 182 calories, no cholesterol, 6 gm. fat and 70 mg. sodium each.

Lemon marinade for chuck steak

1/2 cup lemon juice
 3 tbs. Worcestershire sauce
 2 tbs. oil
 1 tbs. honey
 1 tsp. salt
 1 tsp. grated fresh lemon peel
 1/2 tsp. pepper
 1/2 cup chopped green onion with tops

Combine lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, oil, honey, salt, lemon peel, pepper and onion. Pour over chuck steak. Marinate overnight in refrigerator.

Remove steak from marinade. Broil close to heat, brushing with marinade, about 8 minutes on each side or until done.

Makes enough marinade for 1 1/2 to 2 pounds chuck steak. Good on sirloin, round or cube steaks, too.

Light-hearted spinach lasagna

2 cups low-fat cottage cheese
 2 pkg. (10 oz. each) frozen chopped spinach, defrosted, drained
 1 cup velvee egg product, thawed if necessary
 1 tsp. Italian seasoning
 2 cups spaghetti sauce with no salt added
 1 uncooked lasagna noodles
 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded part-skim mozzarella cheese
 3 tbs. grated parmesan cheese

Cook lasagna noodles according to package directions in water without salt.

In medium bowl, combine cottage cheese, spinach, egg product and Italian seasoning.

Spread 1/2 cup spaghetti sauce in bottom of greased 13-by-9 inch baking dish. Layer one-third each of noodles, spinach filling and remaining sauce. Repeat twice. Sprinkle top with mozzarella cheese and parmesan cheese.

Bake, covered, at 375° for 20 minutes. Uncover. Bake 25 minutes more. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Makes 8 servings; 260 calories, 411 mg. sodium, 12 mg. cholesterol, 7 gm. fat and 2 gm. dietary fiber each.

Fettuccine with roasted red pepper sauce

3 large red bell peppers
 1/2 cup whipping or heavy cream
 1/2 cup Italian salad dressing
 2 tbs. chopped fresh or 2 tsp. dried basil leaves
 Salt and pepper to taste

1 pkg. (16 oz.) fettuccine or medium egg noodles, rinsed, drained
 Grated parmesan cheese

In large baking pan or on broiler rack lined with aluminum foil, place peppers. Broil, turning occasionally, 20 minutes or until peppers turn almost completely black. Immediately place in paper bag. Close bag. Let cool about 30 minutes. Under cold running water, peel off skin, then remove stems and seeds.

In food processor or blender, process prepared peppers, cream, Italian dressing, basil, salt and pepper until blended.

Toss with hot fettuccine. Serve with cheese.

Makes about 4 main-dish servings.

Fresh minestrone salad

1 cup (2 medium) julienne-cut carrot
 1/2 cups (2 medium) sliced zucchini
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1 can (8.5 oz.) light red kidney beans or garbanzo beans, drained, rinsed
 4 oz. uncooked vermicelli pasta, broken in 2 inch pieces
 1/2 cup prepared Caesar salad dressing
 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley

Salt and pepper to taste
 Lettuce or spinach leaves

In small saucepan, cook carrots in small amount of boiling water until tender-crisp. Drain.

In large bowl, combine carrot, zucchini, onion, beans and salad dressing. Refrigerate 2 to 4 hours to blend flavors.

Cook vermicelli to desired doneness as directed on package. Drain. Rinse with cold water.

Just before serving, gently toss cooked vermicelli with vegetable mixture. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Serve on lettuce-lined plates. Sprinkle with parsley. Garnish as desired.

Makes six (1-cup) servings.

Italian pasta sausage soup

1 lb. Italian sausage links
 1 can (28 oz.) tomatoes, undrained, cut up
 1 can (1 1/4 oz.) chicken broth
 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
 1 tsp. basil leaves
 1 tsp. oregano leaves

- 2 tsp. onion
2 tsp. butter or margarine
3 tsp. flour
1 cup chicken stock
1 cup cream
1 cup cooked broccoli
eggs, separated
Pinch nutmeg
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute onion in butter until it begins to soften. Stir in flour, ring, add broth and cream mixture begins to boil, add broccoli. Remove from heat. Beat egg yolks. Add to hot broth mixture. Return to heat. Stir until it thickens. Add nutmeg, salt and pepper. Remove from heat. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into mixture.
Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake at 325° for 30 minutes.
Serve hot or cold, inverted on platter.
Makes 4 servings.

Merry Mac salad

- 2 cups uncooked elbow macaroni
cans (7 oz. each) tuna, drained, flaked
1 cup diced green pepper
1 cup sliced ripe olives
1 cup oil
1 tsp. pepper
1 cup vinegar
1 cup ketchup
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. onion salt
1 cup celery salt
1 small tomato, sliced

Cook macaroni according to package directions. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water. Drain.

Combine macaroni, tuna, green pepper and olives.
Mix oil, vinegar, ketchup, Worcestershire sauce, salt, onion salt, celery salt and pepper until blended. Mix with macaroni. Add tomato. Toss lightly.
Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Frosty vegetable spread

- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
2 tsp. skim milk
2 tsp. lemon juice
1 medium cucumber, seeded, chopped
1 cup shredded carrot
2 tsp. chopped radish
1 tsp. chopped parsley
Pinch white pepper
Radish for garnish
Snack crackers

In medium bowl, blend cream cheese, milk and lemon juice. Stir in cucumber, carrot, radish, parsley and pepper. Chill, covered, at least 1 hour.
To serve, garnish with radish. Serve as dip with crackers.

Pineapple sun salad

- 1 fresh pineapple
1 head iceberg lettuce, torn
1 head romaine lettuce, torn
1 tomato, chopped
1 can (16 oz.) kidney beans
10 whole pitted olives
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup salsa
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese

Twist crown from pineapple. Cut lengthwise in half, then in quarters. Remove fruit from shells. Trim off core. Cut in chunks.

Toss iceberg and romaine lettuce in large salad bowl. Add pineapple, tomatoes, beans and olives. Blend with dressing. Top each serving with shredded cheese.
Makes 10 servings; 229 calories, 10 gm. protein, 13.4 gm. fat, 18.8 gm. carbohydrate, 462.4 mg. sodium and 34 mg. cholesterol each.

Spicy squash soup

- 2 tsp. butter or margarine
1 shallot, peeled, finely chopped
1/2 tsp. fresh cilantro
1/2 tsp. ground cumin
Pinch cayenne pepper
4 cups chopped, peeled winter squash, such as acorn, butternut or Hubbard
3/4 cups water
1/2 tsp. sugar
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter in large, heavy saucepan over high heat. Add shallot, cilantro, cumin and cayenne. Stir until well blended.

Add squash. Mix to coat with flavorings. Add water, sugar, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Lower heat. Simmer about 25 minutes or until squash is very tender. Cool slightly.

Puree soup in batches in food processor or blender until smooth. Return to saucepan. Adjust seasoning as necessary.
Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Turkey fills hectic pace of autumn

The hectic pace of autumn activities perks up the metabolism, but also turns on appetites when there is little time to fill them. Eating nutritious food not only satisfies cravings, but gives energy needed to get through a busy week.

A special meal featuring Orange-Glazed Turkey refuels the soul as well as the body. A relaxing meal takes everyone out of the rat-race for a while and recharges mental batteries. By using convenient turkey parts, such as turkey breast cutlets or slices, it is possible to produce nutritious, memorable meals, even on a limited time schedule. This is an instant entrée.

Simply saute the turkey a few minutes on each side, and heat and swirl together some marmalade, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger in a small saucepan. Spoon the spicy-sweet sauce over the cutlets for a tasty sensation and a filling entrée. Create even more taste variations by changing the marmalade to apricot or apple jelly.

Orange-glazed turkey cutlets

- 1 lb. fresh turkey breast cutlets or slices
- Salt, pepper and cinnamon
- 2 tsp. oil
- 1/2 cup orange marmalade
- Pinch cinnamon
- Pinch nutmeg
- Pinch ginger

Lightly sprinkle one side of turkey with salt, pepper and cinnamon. In large non-stick skillet over medium-high heat, saute turkey in oil 1 to 2 minutes per side until meat is no longer pink in center. Remove turkey to platter. Keep warm.

In small saucepan over medium heat, combine marmalade, pinch cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger. Cook 1 to 2 minutes until mixture is heated throughout. To serve, spoon marmalade sauce over cutlets.

Makes 4 servings; 218 calories, 27 gm. protein, 4 gm. fat, 19 gm. carbohydrate, 80 mg. sodium and 70 mg. cholesterol each.

Ethnic variations

For a dish with Eastern taste, add curry. To create an Oriental dish, add a splash of sesame oil and a little soy sauce.

For spicy Mexican flavor, include cumin in the sauce. Garnish with cilantro.

Sesame turkey slices

- 4 tsp. lemon juice
- 2 tsp. soy sauce
- 2 tsp. honey
- Pinch pepper
- 1 lb. fresh turkey breast cutlets or slices

Spaghetti squash used like pasta

To cook one medium spaghetti squash (about 3 pounds), pierce it with a fork (to allow steam to escape while cooking). Bake at 400°, uncovered, about 1 1/2 hours until soft. To microwave, cook on high power 8 minutes, turn over squash, then microwave 8 to 11 minutes longer until tender. Let stand 10 minutes.

Cut squash in halves crosswise. Scoop out seeds. Unwind spaghetti-like strands of squash with fork and immediately serve like pasta.

Homemakers to meet Nov. 8 in Granite City

Creative Homemakers Extension Unit met at the home of Donna Warren in Granite City to finalize plans for the Homemakers Southwest District meeting, scheduled Thursday, Nov. 8.

Registration will begin at 7 p.m. at Hope Lutheran Church, 3715 Wabash Ave., Granite City.

The program, "Insuring Your Home," will be presented by Charlotte Charbonnier. Units included in this district are Granite City, Isabel Bevier, Tris, Venice/Madison and Creative Women.

Gail Fritzsche appointed committees for refreshments, decorations, kitchen and a raffle. The telephone committee will advise members of their responsibility for the evening.

All Homemakers Extension Unit meetings, including the district session, are open to any woman in the community. For further information, call Joana Spencer at 451-2716.

At the Oct. 15 meeting, the lesson, "Survival Skills for Independent Living," was given by Catherine Mauck, Madison County adviser. All were urged to begin planning now for the future. During times of emotional stress being prepared will ease many of these new burdens, Mauck said.

Linda Badger, unit chairman, led the group in the pledge of allegiance and roll call and minutes were read, by Gloria Blechle, secretary.

Becky Lewis, treasurer, gave her report and accepted hostess fee assessments. Arla Ault, second vice president, received dues and reminded everyone the $10 dues fee is now due.

Karen Nelson, International chairman, said the Soviet Union will be the country to be studied this year.

Joanna Spencer, Family Relationship chairman, gave the selected subject for October, "A Child's Ten Commandments to Parents."

Gail Fritzsche, first vice president, thanked everyone for participating in the coming year's program and distributed the 1990-91 yearbooks which members completed.

The CHEP Bazaar will be held on Dec. 13 and members were asked to bring their items to Doris Miskell or Mickey Strack no later than Nov. 29. Further information will be announced regarding this countywide project at the district meeting.

The December meeting and Christmas party are being planned by Karen Nelson. Members will be advised of the time and place by telephone, she said.

The 4-H club report was given by Arla Ault, leader. The G.C. Novas meet on the second Thursday of each month and any youth between 8 and 19 wishing additional information may contact Ault at 877-1188.

Three members from the local 4-H group attended the Illinois State Fair in August with their blue ribbon projects, Ault said.

Judy Baker, Cultural Arts chairman, reported on the fall craft workshop ideas.

Refreshments were served to 12 members by Diane Gebhardt and Donna Warren. Other members present were Sylvia Massman and Georgia Lottstetter.

Venice man at convention

Donald Turner Jr. of Venice attended the 73rd annual session of the Illinois Council of Deliberation of Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Prince Hall Affiliation, in Peoria on Oct. 12 and 13.

During the convention, Turner was elevated to the 32nd degree and given the title of sublime prince of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Prince Hall affiliation.

The 32nd degree is the second highest degree of Scottish Rite Masonry which can be received among Prince Hall affiliated masons.

Turner is a member of Bethel AME Church of Madison and secretary of Jericho Lodge 120, AF&AM, Madison. He also is a member of the Tyree Consistory 64 of East St. Louis; Pride of Jericho Chapter U.D., Order of the Eastern Star, Madison; and supervisor of Junior Craftsmen Council 9 of Madison and Venice.

He serves as first vice president of the Madison Sports Booster Club of Madison Senior High School; vice president of

...Donald Turner Jr. ... Masonic honors

Venice-Madison Khoury League; and is a member of the Joe W. Roberts Youth Athletics Club.

Turner has been employed at Illinois Power Co. in Granite City for 19 years.

Auxiliary receives membership honor

Eagles Auxiliary Membership Citation certificates were presented for "net gain" honors by the auxiliary at its October meeting held at Eagles Aerie 1126.

Recipients were Florence Stokes, past president; Florence Hagnauer, membership chairman; Helen Lipchik, delinquent chairman, and Vincine Zerlan secretary.

Stokes also was awarded a Membership Citation Banner and also a certificate, stating the Granite City Auxiliary, qualified for the "No Goose Egg" award.

Ruth Jorgensen, president, opened the meeting and Kathleen Benda, conductor, presented the flag and placed the Bible and the motherhead on the altar.

Debbie Rivers of Aurora, Ill., was a guest and four applications for membership were read.

Barbara Modrusic, state project chairman, reported progress of a variety show and Jeanne Burton, education fund chairman, discussed a recent craft show.

Hagnauer reported on the chili supper meeting and said the Escort Team will be selling Advent Calendars.

Jorgensen announced the Granite City Eagles will hold an Appreciation Weekend in January. A kick-off dinner was held Oct. 25.

Good of the Auxiliary was won by Dee Klesh and Evalene Ederle.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Bonnie Jacobs and Modrusic.

Eagle-Stone buys property near interstate

A Madison church is proposing to construct a new building near Interstate 255.

Members of Eagle-Stone Worship Center at 1348 Iowa St., Madison, signed papers on Monday, Oct. 15, finalizing the purchase of a five-acre tract of land located on Illinois 162 at Interstate 255.

The property is the proposed location for a new church to be built at a future date.

Pastor Don "Skeeter" Jones reported the funds for the land purchase came from several sources and projects.

The church held penny marches each Sunday, beginning in March, and members also filled church banks that were emptied into a jug once a month. A total of $1,600 had been accumulated in the jug by the time it was opened in September.

A church auction held by the Eagle-Stone Men's Group earned an additional $1,400.

Other fund-raising projects included personal pledges and the sale of cookbooks by the Ladies Outreach Group and money bags filled with 30 pieces of silver during the Easter holidays.

In celebration of the property purchase, church members held their annual Fall Festival at the new site on Friday.

FINALIZING THE purchase of land on Illinois 162 at Interstate 255 on which to build a new Eagle-Stone Worship Center are: Pastor Don "Skeeter" Jones, back to camera, and clockwise around the table, Doug Cook, John Dorsey of The Bank of Edwardsville, Jim Watson and Wayne Ashburn. The current center is at 1348 Iowa St., Madison.

Holy Family Ladies Club reviews events

After an opening prayer led by Rev. Camper, the second meeting of the new year for Holy Family Ladies Club was called to order by the president, Rena Hill.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Judy Buech, secretary, and Treasurer Donna Laws presented a report.

Vice president Carol Makarewicz gave particulars on the Christmas dinner to be held at Ralph and Charlie's on Dec. 5. Tickets will be available at the November meeting.

It was decided that the November meeting would be a salad and hors d'oeuvres night with everyone in attendance providing one of the items.

Pat Knollman was selected as chairman for the Golden Age dinner. The event is scheduled for Dec. 2, and help is needed.

Preparation of centerpieces was also discussed.

Hill reviewed several activity ideas for the club for the members' consideration at a later date.

Knollman mentioned help will be needed to sort and assemble Thanksgiving baskets.

The quilt of the month winner was Louisa Gwasda.

Attendance prizes were won by Irene Makarewicz and Jackie Wiesehan.

Twenty members were served dessert provided by Maddie Sotiroff, Margie Greenwald, Joan Linhart and Irene Makarewicz. They also played several games of bingo.

Cloverview Garden Club gathers

Cloverview Garden Club members were recently entertained at Ravanelli's restaurant with a 1 o'clock dessert luncheon by Ceil Johnson. The table centerpiece was a basket of fall flowers, and the table was decorated with various shapes and sizes which was the Show and Tell exhibit of the day. President Lu Tabor called the meeting to order and the collection was read in unison. Members answered roll call by stating "I like Autumn" because

The study for the day, "Basket Weaving/Manufacturing," was given by Marlene Brokaw, who had on display a dozen baskets ranging from antiques made of wood veneer to modern-day weaving, some ornamental for arts and crafts and some for commercial use such as fruit and vegetable. The speaker explained the details of a "homestead" basket and an "egg" basket which she had made herself.

In her opening remarks she noted that baskets were mentioned in the Bible (for instance, Moses as a baby was placed in a basket), and the Indians were also skilled in the art of basket weaving. The importance of baskets to the subject of the club's study this year, trees, was also connected. The club's study for the year is trees.

Brokaw gave a narration on the history of the Lawrence family, pioneers in the field of basket making, who operated a commercial plant in Cobden, Ill., since 1891. Original production consisted of slack barrels made by hand until 1913 when machinery was introduced to keep up with the demand. In the late '20s R.L. Lawrence Sr. introduced the first bushel basket to this area, bringing an end to the barrel business and beginning of the basket to this area, bringing an end to the barrel business and beginning of the basket business for the family. In 1930 Lawrence brought his son into the business and the plant started manufacturing hampers, crates, bushels, half-bushels and market baskets. In 1966 the plant grossed between $30 and $40 thousand annually making plant bands, papyrus baskets and repack baskets.

Competition began in 1966 with eight basket plants in the area. A declining wood basket market was being replaced by less expensive plastic, but the plant continued operating on a limited basis.

In 1983 Lawrence III took over the business and with the rising cost of plastic baskets his plant became more lucrative since it was the only remaining wood veneer box and basket plant in Illinois. The unique business now produces a total of 24 styles in baskets and boxes available to wholesalers.

Reducing stress to be discussed

Dennis Stock, a licensed massage therapist and psychotherapist with 20 years experience in stress reduction, will demonstrate stress reduction techniques through massage on Tuesday, Nov. 6, during the next meeting of the Southern Illinois Network of Women (SINW).

Stock will be demonstrating aspects of Swedish Esalen massage and discuss massage therapy technology.

The public meeting will be held at Sonnie and Char's Restaurant, 1803 Randall Blvd., Collinsville, beginning at 5:30 p.m. with networking, followed by a dinner buffet at 6 p.m.

SINW is a women's networking group for business and professional women in the region.

Reservations must be made by Friday, Nov. 2. For information, call Abby Davidson, 377-2171; Dianna Barron, 397-2342 or 345-1066; Susan Bailey, 277-6850; or Jan Bradley, 692-2625 or 656-6608.

Pack 15 welcomes new cub master

Cub Scout Pack 15, sponsored by Eagles Aerie 1216, held its Halloween Pack meeting at the Eagles hall, Oct. 18 and installed a new cub master.

Assistant Cub Master Jack Moenster asked Assistant Leader Irene Scherjowin, of Den 1 to have her den present the colors and lead the pledge.

Moenster then called to the stage and swore in a new cubmaster, Richard Waeltnerman of Den 5.

Committee Chair Flo Stokes placed an Indian Head Band and Lyon Cloth, the symbol of Akela, on Waeltnerman.

A Halloween party followed, with games of dunking for apples, bean bag toss and pumpkin ring toss.

Trick and treat candy and sister rings were given to the scouts. Little brothers and sisters of the Scouts were given ghost suckers made and donated by Den 6 Bob Cate.

Refreshments were served by Dens 1 and 2. The next pack meeting Nov. 15, with Thanksgiving as the theme.

Flu still to catch winter bug

The flu, it happens every winter. Chills, weakness, loss of appetite, aching of the head, back, arms and legs. It is a contagious disease that affects the whole body.

For healthy adults and children, the flu can be a moderate illness, with virtually all patients resuming normal activity within a week. But, according to the American Lung Association, for the elderly, the greatest risk from the severe effects of the flu are the following groups: adults and children who have chronic disorders of the cardiovascular or pulmonary systems, including children with asthma; residents of nursing homes or other long-term care facilities; otherwise healthy individuals 65 years of age or older.

Physicians, nurses, and other personnel who have contact with high risk patients, and providers of home care to high risk persons such as visiting nurses, as well as all household members, including children also need to be vaccinated because they can transmit influenza to high risk persons.

To be protected for the 1990-91 flu season, the ALA of Illinois recommends that high risk individuals consult their physicians about obtaining a flu shot between October 1 and November 1.

"Flu shots have to be taken once a year since the virus strains change annually," said Danielle Ringer, director of Program Services of ALA of Illinois. "Since the flu vaccine is made from selected viruses, it can get influenza from receiving the flu shot."

If a person does get the flu, it's best to stay in bed and drink lots of fluids. The anti-viral drug amantadine, available through a physician, is prescribed to treating someone with develops influenza A, particularly if it is given as soon as possible after onset of the illness. It can shorten the length of illness and reduce the severity of symptoms. Amantadine is also useful as a preventative for those unable to get a flu shot because of a severe allergy to eggs.

Pneumonia is the most common complication of the flu. Susceptible individuals, particularly those over 65 years of age, should ask their physician about the pneumococcal pneumonia vaccine.

Revaccination may be considered after three years for high risk children who received their first vaccination when younger than five years of age, and after six or older, very high risk individuals.

The vaccine is reimbursable under Medicare.

Drug tests keep workforce, companies, employees say

By Roger McGrath

Drug abuse apparently is a sign of the times, as are employment substance abuse policies that require drug testing designed to weed the abusers out of the workforce.

And, for the most part, it is a safety issue," said Dan Magruder, executive director of the Council of Owners & Constructors (COCA) in Maryland.

That is why construction, manufacturing and other jobs that pose a risk of injury or death, safety management spokesmen say.

"It's just as easy for someone else to get you killed in a construction site accident as to kill yourself," said Don C. Musick, president of Don C. Musick Construction Co.

Attorney Thomas Bearden, with Bearden, Breckenridge, Knoten and Mattern, a law firm that represents employers of many companies, "Every body wants a safe work place. It's not a question of if, but when this is a reasonable approach."

So do employers. AAIM Management, a survey of 191 St. Louis firms with more than 13,000 employees, found the number of companies requiring job applicants pass a drug test, employment drug test had climbed to 43 percent last year, up from 32 percent in 1988; 73 percent had written substance abuse policies, up from 48 percent; and 23 percent intended to start a drug screening program during 1990, up from 10 percent.

Barnes-Sutter Healthcare performed about 12,000 drug screenings last year, up from about 8,500 in 1988, said Bryan Rogers, associate medical director.

Unions generally are supportive of substance abuse policies.

"It is a serious problem in the workplace," said Robert Kelley, president of the St. Louis Labor Council.

Employee drug testing got a boost with the 1988 passage of the federal Drug-Free Workplace Act, which required any company receiving government contracts to have a substance abuse policy in place, and from the Department of Transportation (DOT) regulation requiring random testing of those involved in interstate transportation or the operation of passenger vehicles.

Courts almost immediately put DOT's random-testing provisions in place. Which is OK with management attorneys, many of whom, Bearden among them, are indefatigable as well as a poor labor relations policy.

In fact, Bearden argues that management should suggest, not require, an employee submit to a drug test. If the employee refuses, the company's policy should be written to allow a shift refusal to be construed as insubordination.

Still, four different types of drug tests have passed judicial muster. They are:

- Pre-employment drug test. The number of job applicants testing positive drops as more the drug screening spreads. Bearden said. Example: In 1988, the Texas job site where 55 percent of the applicants did not return for the pre-employment screening.
- Periodic drug test. A federal judge in San Francisco, in knocking out parts of DOT's rules relating to interstate trucking companies, let stand the requirement that drivers can be required to take a drug test as part of their biannual physical examination.
- Periodic tests give the recreational user a chance to kick the habit, Rogers said. Cocaine use can be detected for up to three weeks after a single use, marijuana for several weeks, he said.

The National Labor Relations Board has held that management can unilaterally institute pre-employment screenings, but that all other drug-test issues must be ironed out in collective bargaining.

• Periodic drug test. A federal judge in San Francisco, in knocking out parts of DOT's rules relating to interstate trucking companies, let stand the requirement that drivers can be required to take a drug test as part of their biannual physical examination.

Periodic tests give the recreational user a chance to kick the habit, Rogers said. Cocaine use can be detected for up to three weeks after a single use, marijuana for several weeks, he said.

Entertainment

Channel 2 to keep 'Nightline'

KTVI-TV (Channel 2) has worked out a compromise with Paramount that will allow the station to continue to air ABC-TV's "Nightline" after Jan. 1. The program will be aired at 11:30 p.m. Monday through Friday after the one-hour "Arsenio Show."

Under its contract with Paramount to air the "Arsenio" weeknights at 10:30 p.m. beginning in January, Channel 2 was obligated to also telecast "The Music Machine With Nia Peeples" following "Arsenio." That scenario would have knocked "Nightline" off Channel 2. However, apparently under pressure from Channel 2, Paramount has agreed to modify the contract and let Channel 2 run "The Music Machine" at midnight, opening the 11:30 p.m. slot for "Nightline."

When you stand in the check-out line at the grocery store waiting for someone to finish struggling with the check-out machine, it is OK to glance through some of the trash papers that pass for journalism in that arena.

"My Baby's Father is a UFO," "I Was a Hell's Angels' Plaything."

What the heck. It's diverting, maybe even titillating. But it will not replace your newspaper, or your news magazine, or I hope, your television newscast.

So why is KSDK-TV (Channel 3) trying to replace your grocery-store trash paper? Channel 3 owns the St. Louis television news market. It gets huge ratings for every program, and in fact, has been the most successful NRC affiliate in the country the last couple of years, according to Nielsen ratings.

Why, then, has it slipped into sheer broadcasting slouch? Last week, the station aired on its 10 p.m. newscast a series based on the diary of Dennis Bulloch, who was convicted of manslaughter in the suffocation death, apparently in sexual bondage, of his wife, Julia. The series, which anchor Dick Ford said provided "insights into the man and his crime" revolved around excerpts from a diary purportedly written by Bulloch and vague efforts at analysis by a woman identified as a psychotherapist. But the station was quick to offer a disclaimer — the "analysis" was made only on the basis of a reading of the excerpts and not, on expert analysis.

So, why do it? Apparently, because it gave reporter Karen Koman a chance to say, in reference to the fire, such things as "his new bride in flames," "gagged and bound in 77-feet of duct tape." And later, "He fed her body to the flames."

Also, it apparently gave the station a chance to do a series in which the promos could talk about excerpts from the diary that deal with Bulloch's views on sex and bondage.

The excerpts have included such observations as "The more women I need, the more I realize that they are weak and vulnerable to my sweet tongue." Another excerpt read: "Can a trust be rebuilt that's once betrayed? For me, it seems not... May you burn for what you've done to me. The psychotherapist said she was not sure whether that message was for Bulloch's first wife, Anne, from whom he is divorced, or second wife, Julia."

To be fair, the excerpts seem to reveal, at least to my untrained ear, that Bulloch is a strange guy. But based on what already was known, I already had come to that conclusion.

It does not seem to me the stories contribute substantially to our understanding of the world in which we live — or even, for that matter, the crimes of which Bulloch was convicted.

But the series had to be viewed in the context of what now passes for news at Channel 3. During the 10 p.m. newscast Oct. 16, the station broadcast an interview with a woman who claimed to have been gang-raped outside a North Side bar several months ago. The trial had started, but it is difficult to know what was gained by an interview with a woman who had nothing to add to previously aired reports. It was blatant "sexploitation." Incidentally, Koman was the reporter on that story, too.

But don't blame Koman. On the second night of the Bulloch series, here is what Channel 5 chose to tell us at 10 p.m.:

Lead story: The controversy about pop singer Madonna wrapping herself in underwear and the flag and urging young people to vote, followed by stories on the occult, a youth counselor accused of sexual assault and a report of sexual assault on a navy base. Then, at last, there were stories on the nation's budget, the civil rights bill veto and oil profits. The Bulloch report was next.

There is a pattern here. But the mystery is why Channel 3, which built its huge ratings on reasonably solid reporting backed up by great promotion, has taken to pandering to our worst instincts. It is not as if Channel 5 is in ratings trouble and trying to find a way out.

What it amounts to is a total lack of respect for the audience.

Incidentally, KMOV-TV (Channel 4) also did a story on the Bulloch diary, but confined it to one night.

'Rocky Horror' video to be limited; theater reopens doors for events

After much anticipation, "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" will be available at local video outlets beginning Nov. 8.

But rental copies could be scarce commodities because 20th Century Fox Home Video expects to sell most of the video it manufactures at full retail price within a few days of the release date, according to a representative of Blockbuster Video, St. Louis' largest home video retailer.

Exact numbers are not yet available but the number will be far less than most video releases of major theatrical motion pictures, the representative said. 20th Century Fox also claims to have encoded the tapes with a new, top-secret scrambling process.

One that will not even name—that will make the videos impossible to duplicate, the Blockbuster representative said. Most video outlets will charge $3 to rent "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" for one 24-hour period, in check of outlets revealed.

The video will sell for $89.95 at many retail video outlets, including Schmucks and Dierbergs. But Blockbuster patrons who plunk down $29.95 before the Nov. 8 release date will be guaranteed a one-day rental on the release date, plus a used copy of the video after it has been taken out of their regular rental stock at a later date.

Popular videos are rented between 150 and 200 times, industry sources say. The operators of several local theaters that hold midnight audience-participation showings of the film on weekends are undaunted by the pending video release, claiming it will introduce the film to a new generation of viewers and thereby provide the operators with even greater theater attendance in the future.

Theater rebirth

The rebirth of the American as a nightclub and theater under the promotional banner of Contemporary Productions begins in November and December with five musical acts. Country and western group Sawyer Brown kicks off the slate Nov. 7; followed by Basia, Nov. 8; Robert Cray, Nov. 16 and 17; Bruce Hornsby and the Range, Nov. 17; and Los Lobos with Steve Earle, Dec. 1.

Contemporary is billing the American, which now has tables and chairs giving it a cabaret look on its main floor, as "St. Louis' Only Theater Nite Club." Theater seating still remains in the balcony.

The new layout on the main floor first was retained from last year, when it was installed by theater owner Charlie Cella for a coming-out party for his daughter.

Ads for the new operation are a little misleading, however. They list the theater's capacity as "approximately 1,500" and claim "even the back balcony seats are surprisingly close to the stage."

That is not true according to an interview I did in 1984 with the late Frank Pierson, who operated the theater for more than two decades.

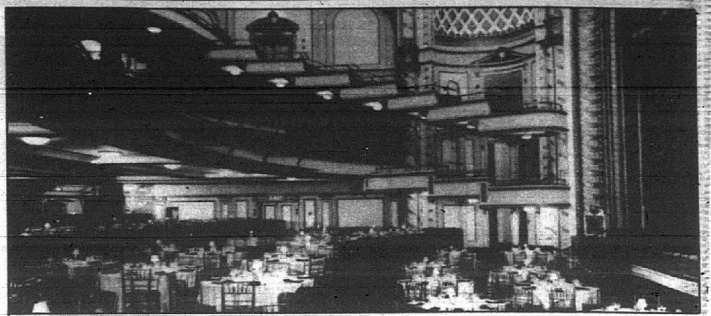

On several occasions Pierson and his former administrative assistant, Karen McCrory, said about 300 of the theater's seats located in the back balcony are virtually unsellable because of their extremely high angle to the stage and the resulting poor line of sight.

Pierson frequently said the inability to sell those seats was an economic hardship that caused the American to lose money on almost every musical or dramatic show in the five years preceding the theater's closing in September 1987.

Un-'Fantastiks'

The recent lackluster showing of the Munny production of "The Fantastiks" at the Fox Theater may have doomed completion of the show's planned 40-city tour that was scheduled to extend into 1991, said a source at the Munny who asked not to be identified.

Robert Goulet, who headlined the show, and other members of the cast and crew of the bus and truck company that stopped in St. Louis "may be getting an early Christmas vacation," the source said. The prediction is based on the fact that the show's poor showing in St. Louis was among its best thus far on the tour, the source said. Harry Hamm is entertainment editor for both KMOX-AM (1120) and the CBS Radio Network.

THE NEWLY RENOVATED American Theater features night-club seating on the main floor while retaining theater seating in the balcony.
